Contents

List of illustrations vii
Acknowledgements viii
'Breaking in' x

1 Social research as social action 1
Who are we? 5
Acting educatively 8
Being reflexive about being reflexive 11

2 Elephants and apples: from social perception to false consciousness 15
Spoor tracking 16
A description of the experiment 25
What is it? 27
The power of personal experience 32
Inside/outside 34

3 Collective memory-work: the self as a re/source for re/search 39
(with Barbara Schratz-Hadwich)
The process of collective memory-work 44
The uses of collective memory-work 49
Encountering someone of another colour (first version) 51
Discussion of the memory text 53
Encountering someone of another colour (second version) 57
Developing shared ownership of memories 59
Memory-work: a summary 61

4 Being there: using pictures to see the invisible 65
(with Janine Wiedel)
Catalogue notes 72
Being there 74
Watching TV watching 77
Children and drugs 80

Perceptual maps 86
Difficulties with mathematics 88
Counting the deckchairs as the ship goes down 89

5 Reading to write: finding songlines in the research literature 91
(with Barbara Kamler)
Pedagogical notes on the home front 91
Comment 102

6 Theory is not just theoretical 104
Theory and research in everyday life 104
The need for practical theory 107
Abstraction 110
Taking nonsense seriously 112
Theory, authority and education 116
Research and me 118
Research is a social (read political) activity 122
'Theory' in practical research 124

7 Emotional work in doing research: looking at/with a blind spot in academic relationships 126
No fun for the pig 126
Living with the pig 127
Standing together at the threshold of knowledge 131
The politics of research 133
Epistemological shifts 136
Wearing the coats we weave for others 137
End note 145

8 In place of work: beyond the recognition of prior learning 147
Education as deskilling 149
Back to work 151

9 Windows to look through/windows to break, open or close 165
What is wrong with qualitative research? 167

References 175
Index 180

Illustrations

1 'Breaking in' ix
2 The blind men and the elephant 21
3 Two photographs of the 'experiment' 26
4 Elephant pixcels 29
5 Elephant sculpture cartoon (the late Albert Saunders) 35
6 Janine's photographs (13 pictures) 65
7 Michael Leunig, 'The Understandascope' 73
8 Watching television at home and at school 78
9 'Jugs and herrings' 82
10 Alice's 'mattering maps' 87
11 Research and me: Jürgen 119
12 Research and me: András 119
13 Research and me: Onoriode 121
14 Sally's workplace: a professional map 152
15 Jane's workplace: a professional map 153
16 Living sociogram: Estonia 163
17 Thinking about change and continuity: Croatia 164

FIGURES

1 Relationships in research 37
2 From reproduction to transformation 42
3 Phases in the memory-work process 45
4 Memory-work worksheet 46
5 The context of research 130
6 Reconceptualising the person and the context 158
7 Areas of clarification 159
8 Dimensions of involvement 161
9 Levels of response to change 171
10 The Johari window 173