
CONTENTS

I Theorizing Economic Diversity and Economic Action

- | | |
|---|----|
| 1. Action and Diversity versus Models of Growth | 3 |
| 2. Possible Worlds of Production | 26 |
| 3. Firms, Profits, Work, and Innovation | 44 |
| 4. Situating Firms in Worlds of Production | 77 |

II Worlds of Production in Three Countries

- | | |
|--|-----|
| 5. Identifying Real Worlds of Production in France, Italy, and the United States | 97 |
| 6. France: Innovative Real Worlds of Fashion and High Technology | 116 |
| 7. Italy: Interpersonal Action and the Division of Labor | 149 |
| 8. California High Technology: The Intellectual World in a Market Context | 174 |
| 9. Selection, Stability, and Transformation of Real Worlds of Production | 189 |

III Institutions, States, and the Coordination of Real Worlds

- | | |
|--|-----|
| 10. States and Institutions as Conventions | 207 |
|--|-----|

Contents

11. State Intervention: A Critique of the French Case	224
12. Competitiveness, Situated States, and Real Worlds in Three Countries	246
 IV Conventions, Economic Action, and Institutions
13. A Critique of Contemporary Institutionalism	269
14. Toward a Theory of Conventions, Economic Action, and Economic Development	294
 Notes	 307
References	333
Name Index	365
Subject Index	367

FIGURES AND TABLES

Figures

- Figure 2.1* Possible worlds of production 33
- Figure 3.1* Models of production 46
- Figure 3.2* Analysis of firm profitability and performance 54–55
- Figure 3.3* Economic ratios for each model, according to predicted influence on profitability 56
- Figure 3.4* Labor conventions of worlds of production 59
- Figure 3.5* External relations in innovation in different worlds of production 67
- Figure 4.1* Movements between worlds of production for firms having improved profitability 88
- Figure 5.1* Cluster's share of country's exports 109
- Figure 5.2* France: final case selection 114
- Figure 6.1* Competitive structure for women's dress industry 120
- Figure 6.2* Geographical division of labor for high fashion ready-to-wear 128
- Figure 6.3* French high technology industry 132–134
- Figure 7.1* Conventions of identity and participation, action framework, and models of production 165
- Figure 9.1* Identity, participation, and innovation compared 191

Figures and Tables

- Figure 13.1* Explanations of efficient institutional arrangements in production 275
- Figure 13.2* Coordination, governance, and internalization 281
- Figure 14.1* Categories of analysis 300
- Figure 14.2* Conventions of economic development 304

Tables

- Table 4.1* Number of firms in FIM sample 80
- Table 4.2* Rate of return of firms in 1987 84
- Table 4.3A* Change in exports of firms toward OECD countries, 1983–1987 85
- Table 4.3B* Overall specialization of French economy, 1983 85
- Table 4.3C* Import-export ratio of French economy, 1983 85
- Table 5.1* Trade composition and trade ratios for main industrialized countries by typology of industrial sectors, 1990 99
- Table 5.2* Export specialization 100–101
- Table 5.3* Degree of country specialization by industry group 102
- Table 5.4* The roots of export specialization 104–107
- Table 5.5* Regional real worlds 110
- Table 5.6* Percentage of French employment and location quotients by region for export specialized French industries in 1987 112–113
- Table 6.1* French clothing industry, percentage change in employment by size of firms, 1975–1984 119
- Table 6.2* The French high fashion houses 123
- Table 6.3* French trade in electronic systems in 1976 and 1985 136–137
- Table 11.1* Characteristics of sectors, France, 1974–1989 236–237