
Contents

List of figures	ix
Notes on contributors	xi
Acknowledgements	xiv
As the world turns: introduction	1
Forwards
1 Other than myself/my other self Trinh T. Minh-ha	9
Part I Neighbours
2 Discovering new worlds: politics of travel and metaphors of space Jacques Rancière	29
3 The becoming threshold of matrixial borderlines Bracha Lichtenberg-Ettinger	38
4 Territories of desire: reconsiderations of an African childhood Griselda Pollock	63
Part II Home and away
5 Home and identity Madan Sarup	93
6 For a politics of nomadic identity Chantal Mouffe	105
7 Refugees and homecomings: Bessie Head and the end of exile Rob Nixon	114

Part III Crossroads

- 8 Soft-soaping empire: commodity racism and imperial advertising 131
Anne McClintock
- 9 Travelling to collect: the booty of John Bargrave and
Charles Waterton 155
Stephen Bann
- 10 Looking at objects: memory, knowledge in nineteenth-century
ethnographic displays 164
Nélia Dias
- 11 The distance between two points: global culture and the liberal dilemma 177
Annie E. Coombes
- 12 The cosmopolitan ideal in the arts 187
Peter Wollen

Part IV Take the high road

- 13 'Getting there': travel, time and narrative 199
Barry Curtis and Claire Pajaczkowska
- 14 Travel for men: from Claude Lévi-Strauss to the Sailor Hans 216
Adrian Rifkin
- 15 Why travel? Tropics, en-tropics and apo-tropaics 225
Sunpreet Arshi, Carmen Kirstein, Riaz Naqvi and Falk Pankow

Backwords

- 16 Leaky habitats and broken grammar 245
Iain Chambers
- Index 250