CONTENTS

LIST OF FIGURES AND TABLES xi
PREFACE xiii

1 INTRODUCTION: PLACES OF WORK 1

A(nother) Place to Start 6
Landscapes of Labor 12
Toward a Spatialized Political Economy 16

PART 1. MAKING LABOR MARKETS 23

2 MAKING WORKERS: CONTROL, REPRODUCTION, REGULATION 24

Labor as a “Fictive Commodity” 24
Incorporating Labor 26
Allocating Labor 29
Controlling Labor 32
Reproducing Labor 36

Dilemmas of Labor Regulation 40
3 STRUCTURING THE LABOR MARKET:
A SEGMENTATION APPROACH
Origins of Segmentation Theory:
Approaches to Dualism  50
  First-Generation Approaches  50
  Second-Generation Approaches  53
  The Contribution of the Dualist Models  53
Contemporary Segmentation Theories:
Third-Generation Approaches  56
  From Dualism to Segmentation  56
  The Segmentation of Labor Demand  61
  The Segmentation of Labor Supply  65
  Segmentation and the State  72
Explanation in Segmentation Theories  74
  Segmentation and Causality  76
  Regulation, Institutionalization, and Contingency  77

4 LOCATING THE LOCAL LABOR MARKET:
SEGMENTATION, REGULATION, SPACE
Beyond Labor Market Cartography  87
  From the Edges . . .  87
  . . . to the Center  88
The Local Labor Market as a Conjunctural Structure  90
  A Method of Articulation  91
  The Local Construction of Labor Markets  94
Institutions and Local Labor Market Regulation  96
  Regulation and Space  97
  Putting Labor Institutions in Their Place  100
  Geographies of Labor Market Governance  106
Reinstating the Local Labor Market  109

PART 2. PLACING LABOR MARKETS

5 FLEXIBILIZING LABOR:
INSECURE WORK IN UNSTABLE PLACES
Labor, Flexibility, and Agglomeration  121
  New Flexibility?  125
  New Segmentation?  129
New Industrial Spaces? 132
Contradictions of Labor Market Flexibility 134
  Imperatives of Labor Control 134
  Problems of Skill Formation 138
Regulating Local Flexibilities 141
  Skill Formation 142
  Social Regulation As Local Regulation 147
Local Institutionalization and the Labor Market 148

6 DOMESTICATING WORK: RESTRUCTURING AT WORK, RESTRUCTURING AT HOME 153
Spatial Divisions of Labor 155
Restructuring at Home:
The Case of Industrial Homework 161
  The Reemergence of Homework in Australia 163
  Explaining Homework: The Labor Process and the Labor Market 166
  Mapping Homework: Exploring the Hidden Geographies of Work 174
Structures and Strategies of Restructuring in Urban Labor Markets 175
  Contingent Work, Contingent Strategies 177
Local Imperatives of Labor Control 179

7 BUILDING WORKFARE STATES: INSTITUTIONS OF LABOR REGULATION 185
Tendencies and Contradictions 190
  From Keynesian Welfare . . . 192
  . . . to Schumpeterian Workfare 194
  National Paths to Schumpeterian Workfare: The Case of Thatcherism 201
Training and Enterprise Councils:
Schumpeterian Workfare at the Local Scale? 206
  Radical Thatcherism and the TECs 208
  Market Subordination 211
  Cost-Saving and Flexibility 215
  Hollowing Out 221
The Workfare State in Crisis 226
LIST OF FIGURES AND TABLES

Figure 1.1  The Dual Economy and the Ghetto Labor Market  6
Figure 3.1  The Flexible Firm  64
Figure 4.1  The Mode of Regulation as a Social Topology  99

Table 3.1  Three Generations of Segmentation Theories  50
Table 3.2  The Dual Labor Market: Job and Social Characteristics  52
Table 3.3  Explanation in Segmentation Theories  58
Table 4.1  Toward a Fourth-Generation Segmentation Approach  111
Table 6.1  Garment Firms Registered for the Use of Homeworkers, Victoria, Australia, 1988–1989  173
Table 7.1  The Transition from the Keynesian Welfare State to the Schumpeterian Workfare State  196
Table 7.2  Alternative Schumpeterian Workfare-State Strategies  199
Table 7.3  A Thatcherite Road to Schumpeterian Workfare?  203
Table 7.4  The Transition from the MSC to the TECs  216
Table 8.1  Supranational Modes of Labor Regulation: Some Generic Features  246