

Contents

Tables and figures	vii
Acknowledgements	xii
Foreword	xiii
Introduction	1
Part I The problem of young firm finance
1 Capital for enterprise: A growing concern	5
2 Institutional venture capital: The legacy	29
3 Institutional capital for enterprise now	51
Part II How some organisations address the problem
4 Greater London Enterprise	73
5 Prince's Youth Business Trust	81
6 Birmingham Technology	91
7 British Steel (Industry)	102
8 Lancashire Enterprises	114

9	Massachusetts Technology Development Corporation	126
10	New York State Science and Technology Foundation	136
Part III Enterprising capital
11	The elements of enterprising capital	151
12	Enterprising capital organisations	178
	Bibliography	198

Tables and figures

Table 1.1	Real Gross Domestic Product growth since 1950	6
Table 1.2	Employment in UK industry sectors: 1970-93	6
Table 1.3	The size of manufacturing businesses, 1968-93	6
Table 1.4	Self-employment in the UK, 1961-92	7
Table 1.5	UK venture capital organisations which have received public finance	21
Table 1.6	Private & public venture capital in Europe, 1991	23
Table 1.7	Characteristics of the organisations studied	26
Table 2.1	New US venture capital funds committed (US$m), 1977-90	32
Table 2.2	Number of UK venture capital companies, 1975-91	34
Table 2.3	Investment activity by BVCA member firms, 1984-91	34
Table 2.4	UK venture capital fund sources, 1985-91	34
Table 2.5	Directorship requirements of UK venture capital firms, 1987	42

Table 2.6	Venture capital firms' minimum investment, 1992	45
Table 2.7	Average value of UK venture capital investments (£'000), 1984-91	46
Table 2.8	Internal rates of return: forty six US venture capital firms	48
Table 2.9	Business plans proceeding to investment in the UK, 1987	49
Table 3.1	Seed capital's share of UK venture finance, 1985-91	61
Table 3.2	Start-up's share of UK venture finance, 1985-91	63
Table 3.3	Early stage's share of UK venture finance, 1985-91	64
Table 3.4	Development capital in UK venture finance, 1985-91	66
Table 3.5	MBOs in UK venture finance, 1985-91	67
Table 3.6	Management buy-ins in UK venture finance, 1987	67
Table 3.7	Average investment by financing stage, 1991	67
Table 3.8	UK venture investment by financing stage, 1985-91	69
Table 5.1	Cash outflow of PYBT: Year to 30 June 1992	86
Table 8.1	Lancashire Enterprises' range of funds	117
Table 8.2	Lancashire Enterprise funds' floors, ceilings and exit periods	121
Table 8.3	Lancashire Enterprises' funds: involvement styles	124
Table 9.1	Source of MTDC investment funds, foundation to 1994	131
Table 9.2	Estimated return on investment (ROI) of MTDC	133

Table 10.1	NYSS&TF projects funded and funding granted, 1983-94	139
Table 10.2	Examples of Centers of Advanced Technology	140
Table 10.3	Cumulative employment among SBITF investee firms, 1983-92	145
Table 11.1	Different backgrounds of the organisations studied	151
Table 11.2	Different foci of the organisations studied	152
Table 11.3	Outline of the elements of enterprising capital	153
Table 11.4	Venture capital organisations' investment criteria, from two studies in the United States	154
Table 11.5	Typology of capabilities for successful entrepreneurs and businesses	155
Table 11.6	Main management characteristics sought by the organisations studied	158
Table 11.7	Business criteria applied to businesses supported	159
Table 11.8	Investment calculations behind selection decisions	160
Table 11.9	Alternative behaviours towards deficient management teams	162
Table 11.10	Enterprising capital organisations' attitudes to business plans	163
Table 11.11	Resourcing additional skills and counsel	165
Table 11.12	Network fostering activities	167
Table 11.13	Backgrounds of the organisations' investment staff	169
Table 11.14	Approaches to financial control	171
Table 11.15	Sources of investment finance used	173

Table 11.16	Types of finance supplied	173
Table 11.17	Indicative internal rate of return hurdles	175
Table 12.1	Likely sources of early-stage investment finance in three countries	179
Table 12.2	Resource environments for business development	180
Table 12.3	The notional venture capitalists as sources of resources	181
Table 12.4	The business angel as a source of resources	184
Table 12.5	The corporate venturer as a source of resources	186
Table 12.6	The lending bank as a source of resources	187
Table 12.7	The venture capital organisation now as a source of resources	190
Table 12.8	The enterprising capital organisation as a source of resources	191
Table 12.9	Organisations' perceptions of their main contributions	193
Figure 2.1	Venture capitalist costs in different sized investments	44
Figure 2.2	Cost per £ invested of different sized investments	44
Figure 2.3	Cost of providing finance: different sized investments	44
Figure 2.4	Minimum IRR hurdles for different sized investments	47
Figure 3.1	The stages of venture capital investment	59
Figure 6.1	Organisation structure of Birmingham Technology	96

Figure 7.1	Organisation structure of British Steel (Industry) Scotland	108
Figure 11.1	The elements of enterprising capital	152
Figure 11.2	The effect of a blanket subsidy for venture capital	174
Figure 11.3	An equitably subsidised venture capital scheme	176
Figure 12.1	The notional venture capital route: transactions involved	182
Figure 12.2	The business angel environment: transactions involved	185
Figure 12.3	The corporate venturing environment: transactions involved	187
Figure 12.4	The lending bank environment: transactions involved	188
Figure 12.5	The venture capital environment: transactions involved	190
Figure 12.6	The enterprising capital environment: the transactions involved	192
Figure 12.7	Linking the elements of enterprising capital	195