
Contents

Chapter 1	Doing Justice to the Justice Motive	1
	Melvin J. Lerner
	Reference	8
Chapter 2	Distributive Justice in a Real World	9
	Russell Hardin
	1. Introduction	9
	2. The Structures of Moral Theories	11
	3. Coherence	15
	4. Institutional Fallability	17
	5. Other Pragmatic Constraints	21
	6. Concluding Remarks	22
	References	23
Chapter 3	The Power of the Myth of Self-Interest	25
	Dale T. Miller and Rebecca K. Ratner
	1. The Layperson's Belief in the Power of Self-Interest	26
	1.1. Estimated Impact of Gender on Support for Abortion Coverage	26
	1.2. Estimated Impact of Racial Status on Concern for Minority Needs	27
	1.3. Estimated Impact of Payment on Willingness to Donate Blood	28

1.4. Estimated Impact of Payment on Willingness to Participate in Future Experiments	29
1.5. Summary	30
2. Paths by Which the Myth of Self-Interest Exerts Power	31
2.1. We Normalize Behavior Congruent with Self-Interest and Pathologize Behavior Incongruent with Self-Interest	31
2.2. We Experience Discomfort When We Take Action Incongruent with Our Self-Interest	33
2.3. We Fear Social Isolation When We Take Actions Incongruent with Our Self-Interest	36
2.4. We Justify Our Behavior in Terms of Self-Interest	38
2.5. Summary	40
3. Implications of the Myth of Self-Interest for Social Justice	40
3.1. The Source of Social Inaction: Lack of Incentive or Lack of Justification?	41
3.2. Committing Altruism Under the Cloak of Self-Interest	43
4. Conclusion	45
Acknowledgments	45
References	45

Chapter 4 Empathy, Altruism, and Justice: Another Perspective on Partiality 49

C. Daniel Batson

1. Moral Philosophers' Love of Justice: A Universal and Impartial Moral Principle	50
2. Two Ways to Think about Partiality	50
2.1. Multiple Moralities, Multiple Justices	51
2.2. Multiple Motives: Altruism and Justice as Two Distinct Prosocial Motives	52
2.3. The Problem of Partiality as a Conflict between Altruism and Justice	54
3. Some Empirical Evidence	55
3.1. Experiment 1: Empathy in a Social Dilemma	55
3.2. Experiment 2: Assigning Workers to Tasks	57
3.3. Experiment 3. Playing God	60
3.4. Summary	61
4. Implications: Problems and Promise for Justice of Empathy-Induced Altruism	62
References	64

Chapter 5 Intergenerational Relations, Inequality, and Social Justice 67

Karen S. Cook and Shawn Donnelly

1. Introduction 67

2. The Exchange Model and Intergenerational Relations. 69

 2.1. The Basic Model 69

 2.2. The Basic Model and Intergenerational Relations. 73

3. Extensions of the Social Exchange Model 76

 3.1. Forms of Exchange 76

 3.1.1. Forms of Exchange and Intergenerational Relations 77

4. Conclusion 79

References 80

Chapter 6 Have Feminists Abandoned Social Activism? Voices from the Academy. 85

Faye J. Crosby, Janet Todd and Judith Worell

1. Method 87

 1.1. Overview 87

 1.2. Sample. 88

 1.3. Data Collection 88

 1.4. Instruments: Measures and Coding 89

 1.4.1. Developing the Protocol. 89

 1.4.2. Extent of Activism 89

 1.4.3. Nature of Activities 90

 1.4.4. Correlates of Activism 90

2. Results 91

 2.1. Preliminary 91

 2.2. Extent of Activism 92

 2.3. Nature of Activism 92

 2.4. Correlates of Activism 93

3. Discussion 96

Acknowledgments 98

References 99

Chapter 7 From Is to Ought and the Kitchen Sink: On the Justice of Distributions in Close Relationships. 103

Barbara Reichle

1. Introduction 103

2. Distributions among Spouses and Parents: Objects, Subjects, and Norms	105
2.1. Objects and Goods	106
2.2. Actor, Victim, and Responsibility	107
2.3. Rules and Norms	110
(1) Allocation Rules	112
(2) Procedural Rules	114
(3) Distributional Rules	117
2.4. Normative Patterns	119
2.5. From Ought to Is: Norms and Practise	121
3. Is-Ought-Discrepancies: Do They Matter?	123
3.1. Emotional Reactions to Injustice	124
3.1.1. The Victim	125
3.1.2. The Bystanding Observer	125
3.1.3. The Harmdoer	127
3.2. Emotions and Relationship Satisfaction	127
4. Conclusion	129
Acknowledgments	130
References	130
Chapter 8 Justice and Leadership: A Social Co-Constructionist Agenda	137
James R. Meindl and Karen J. Thompson
1. The Social Construction of Leadership	139
2. The Forms of Justice	141
3. Distributive versus Procedural Justice	144
4. Justice Motives	147
5. Conclusion	149
References	150
Chapter 9 Victims without Harmdoers: Human Casualties in the Pursuit of Corporate Efficiency	155
Melvin J. Lerner
1. Corporate Restructuring: What Happens when “Good” Managers Harm “Good” Employees for “Good” Reasons?	155

2. Employees Reactions to Their Victimization: To Believe or Not to Believe in a Just World	158
3. The Survivors' Reactions to the Victimization: The Paradoxical Effects of Procedural Fairness without Distributive Justice.....	160
4. Managers: The Entrapped Victims of a Hidden Moral Dilemma.....	162
5. The Next Generation of Employees: Young People Coping with the Injustice of Relative Deprivation	165
6. Concluding Thoughts	168
References	168

Chapter 10 Mass Unemployment under Perspectives of Justice 171

Leo Montada

1. Unemployment—A Personal Hardship and a Social Evil ...	171
2. Is Mass Unemployment an Injustice?	173
3. The Claim for a Civil Right to Employment and Responsibility Attribution to the State.....	174
4. Responsibility Reconsidered.....	175
4.1. Causes of Mass Unemployment.....	176
4.2. Who is Responsible? The Construction of Reality	177
5. The (Social) Construction of Justice	178
6. The (In-)Justice of Occupational Policies	181
6.1. General Reduction of Working Hours	181
6.2. Creating More Part-time Positions	182
6.3. Flexibilization of Working Times.....	183
6.4. Moderate Increases or Reduction in Wage Levels and Additional Wage Related Labor Costs.....	183
6.5. Spread of Wages at the Lower End of the Income Scale	184
6.6. Second Labor "Market"	185
6.7. Promoting and Supporting New Ventures.....	186
6.8. Deregulation	186
7. The Distribution of Costs	187
7.1. Is it Just to Defend Acquired Entitlements?.....	188
7.2. A Look at the Hidden Reservoir of Communitarian Attitudes and Feelings	188
References	189

Chapter 11 What Is Fair in the Environmental Debate? 195

Susan Clayton

1. What Is Fair in the Environmental Debate?	195
2. Justice Arguments	197
2.1. The Justice of the Marketplace.	199
2.2. Equality	199
2.3. Procedural Issues	200
2.4. Rights	202
2.5. Responsibility	202
3. Relevance of Different Values to Appeal of Different Positions.	203
4. Implications for Environmental Justice	206
References	208

Chapter 12 Is Justice Finite? The Case of Environmental Inclusion. 213

Susan Opatow

1. The Scope of Justice	213
1.1. The Scope of Justice and the Natural World	214
1.2. Broadening the Environmental Constituency	215
2. The Environmental Movement: Enlarging the Scope of Justice.	215
2.1. Background	215
2.2. Societal Arrangements that Influence Environmental Behavior.	216
2.2.1. Deep Ecology	216
2.2.2. Ecofeminism	217
2.2.3. Social Ecology	217
2.2.4. Environmental Justice	218
3. Typologies of Environmental Inclusion	219
3.1. Self-Centered Environmental Values	219
3.2. Human-Centered Environmental Values	220
3.3. Planet-Centered Environmental Values	220
4. Dynamics of Inclusion.	221
4.1. Limits to Environmental Inclusion	221
4.1.1. Situational Limits of Inclusion	221
4.1.2. Perceptual Biases: The Illusion of Inclusiveness	222
4.2. Expanding Environmental Inclusion	223
4.2.1. Helping.	223
4.2.2. Pluralism	224

5. Summary: Challenges of Environmental Inclusion 225
 References 226

Chapter 13 Are Proenvironmental Commitments Motivated by Health Concerns or by Perceived Justice? 231

Elisabeth Kals

1. Research in the Context of “Socioecological Justice” 231
 1.1. Basic Appraisals of the Extent, the Causes, and the Reduction of Environmental Problems 231
 1.2. The Field of Socioecological Justice 233
 1.3. Overview of Empirical Justice Relevant Psychological Contributions to the Promotion of Proenvironmental Behavior 235
 2. A Structural Model to Explain Proenvironmental
 Behavior 236
 3. First Study 240
 3.1. Research Questions 240
 3.2. Sample and Measurement Instruments 242
 3.3. Summary of the Main Predictive Results 243
 4. Second Study 244
 4.1. Research Questions 244
 4.2. Sample and Research Method 246
 4.3. Results on the Predictive Power of Justice versus Health Relevant Predictors 246
 5. Summary and Discussion of the Results of Both Studies . . . 250
 6. Outlook on Future Research 254
 References 256

Chapter 14 Trade-offs between Justice and Self-Interest. 259

Leo Montada

1. Justice or Justices? 259
 2. Self-Interest and the Justice Motive 262
 3. Linking Justice and Welfare Criteria 268
 4. Procedural Fairness in Value Conflicts and the Social Construction of Value Orientations 273
 References 274

Name Index 277

Subject Index 283