

Contents

Preface	ix
I. Living a Lie
1. The Significance of Preference Falsification	3
2. Private and Public Preferences	22
3. Private Opinion, Public Opinion	45
4. The Dynamics of Public Opinion	60
5. Institutional Sources of Preference Falsification	84
II. Inhibiting Change
6. Collective Conservatism	105
7. The Obstinacy of Communism	118
8. The Ominous Perseverance of the Caste System	128
9. The Unwanted Spread of Affirmative Action	137
III. Distorting Knowledge
10. Public Discourse and Private Knowledge	157
11. The Unthinkable and the Unthought	176
12. The Caste Ethic of Submission	196
13. The Blind Spots of Communism	205
14. The Unfading Specter of White Racism	222
IV. Generating Surprise
15. Unforeseen Political Revolutions	247
16. The Fall of Communism and Other Sudden Overturns	261

17. The Hidden Complexities of Social Evolution	289
18. From Slavery to Affirmative Action	310
19. Preference Falsification and Social Analysis	326
Notes	351
Index	409