

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
1 First Principles	1
What is a customer?	1
Customer decision criteria	2
Company-wide quality programmes	3
The company – aims and objectives	10
2 Identifying and Categorising Markets	17
Building a market identity matrix	18
Measuring market opportunity	22
Market information and where to find it	23
Market research and marketing research	24
Assessing market maturity and growth potential	24
Competitive presence as a threat in new markets	28
The director's role in decisions on market assessments, methodology and investment	29
3 Criteria for Assessing Market Attractiveness	31
Appropriateness to the company's business	31
Size and growth	32
Maturity and competitive structure	33
Assessing profit potential before entry	34
Exposures on receivables and currency movements	39
Available distribution channels and infrastructure	39
USA and Japan – special considerations	40
Warning signs to look for	40
Conclusion	41

4	Selecting and Prioritising New Market Opportunities and Developing an Overall Plan	42
	Gathering facts	43
	Consulting experts	47
	Modelling possible outcomes	47
	Formulating a strategy	49
	Due diligence on possible partners or acquisitions	49
	Final decisions, communications and follow-up	51
5	New Markets and 'New' and 'Old' Products	52
	Increasing a product's profitable life	53
	Enhancing 'old' products	55
	Developing 'new' products	55
	Research and product development	56
6	Market Development and Product Development	58
	Balancing the approach	58
	Using existing products to develop underexploited markets	58
	When is product development needed?	59
	Salesforce training and effectiveness	60
	Marketing planning	60
	Product planning	63
7	Exploration and Exploitation — Direct and Indirect Approaches	67
	Exploration – What do we know and what can we find out ourselves?	67
	Exploitation – How do we reach the market?	70
8	Distributors, Dealers and Trading Partners – Practical Considerations and Approaches	72
	Types of business partner	72
	Deciding on the most appropriate type of distributor	75
	Finding distribution candidates	77
	Research and preparation for the selection of distributors	79
	Exchange visits	80
	Final decisions and appointments	80
	Agreements, contracts, terms and conditions	81
	Management support and measurement of distributor relationships	84

9 Organising Planning and Resourcing for New Market Initiatives	89
Committing skilled resources	89
Defining the market and positioning the product	90
Product positioning – a Domino case study	91
Internationalism and ‘worldthink’	92
Implanting or transferring market and culture knowledge	95
Market plans, production and logistics	97
Integrated promotion activities	97
Getting the money in, credit control, sales and accounts	98
Performance information, measurement and tracking	99
Quality of response	99
10 Awareness and Attention-Getting in a New Market	100
Advertising and promotion	100
Exhibitions	100
Public relations, distributor and customer relations	101
Conferences and other special events	102
Agencies and third-party help in exploiting new markets	103
The chairman or chief executive as a publicist	103
11 Communications and a Sense of Urgency	105
Focus on the customer and positive attitudes	105
First customer impressions are critical	105
Ownership and leadership	107
Information transfer and positive world-wide communications	108
12 The Single European Market	112
Principal provisions of the Single European Act	112
Implications for companies operating only in the UK	113
The scope of Europeanism and globalisation	113
European competition from 1992	114
What action should companies take in continental Europe?	115
13 Last Principles	117
The company assessment	117
The customer assessment	118
Customer surveys and user panels	118
Assessing business performance	119
Chairman and board as assessors and strategic decision-makers	120

Appendix: Example of Distribution Agreement	121
Bibliography and Further Reading	139
Index	140