Table of Contents

Acknowledgments ix

1 Introduction

What Are We to Make of Cyberspace? 1
Conceptual Presumptions 3
Key Issues in Cyberspace Ethnography 7
Structure of the Book 11
Cyberspace Research Narrative 12

2 An Alternative to "Computer Revolution" Thought

Has There Been a Computer Revolution? 15
Reasons for Being a Computer Revolution Skeptic 18
An Alternative Framework for Assessing AIT's Contribution to Social Change 23
An Evolutionary Approach to AIT and Social Change 25
Initial Empirical Data on AIT and Social Change 33
Conclusion 34

3 Doing Ethnography in Cyberspace

Introduction 37
Ethnographic and "Natural" Science Ways of Knowing 39
Doing Cyberspace Ethnography Anthropologically 43
Examples of Anthropological Cyberspace Ethnography 47
Hurdles Encountered in Anthropological Cyberspace Ethnography 55
Epistemological Challenges in Anthropological Cyberspace Ethnography 62
Conclusion: Issues in Classical and Cyberspace Ethnography 67

4 The Entity Problem: What Carries Culture in Cyberspace?

Introduction 69
The Entity Problem 70
Conceptualizing Culture-Bearing Entities 71
A Cyborgic Model of Human Mental Activity 72

Cyborgic Entities and Cultural Processes 78
An Alternative Cyborgic Model of Culture, Based on the Ethnography of Information System Development 80
Entities in Cyberspace: Actors, Creoles, Objects? 84
Self-Identity in Cyberspace 87
Conclusion: Embodied Imaginings 91

5 The Ethnography of Mid-Range Social Relations in Cyberspace: Community, Region, Organization, and Civil Society

Social Relations in Cyberspace 93
Contemporary Issues in Meso-Social Relations 94
The Ethnography of Cyberspace Communities and Regions 97
Computing and Workspace Cultures 108
The Ethnography of Organizational Culture in Cyberspace 115
The Recent Emergence of a Cyber-Culture-Facture Stage in the Labor Process 120
Conclusion: Virtual, or Virtually No Work/Community? 126

6 Macro-Social Relations and Structure in Cyberspace

Introduction 129
National/Cultural Aspects of Computing 134
Transnational CMC 140
Scandinavia and National/Cultural Differences in Constructing Cyberspace 142
Neo-Classical Approaches to Cyberspace in Economics 158
Alternative #1: Technicist Political Economies of Cyberspace 164
Alternative #2: Substantive Political Economies of Cyberspace 169
Conclusion 173

7 Knowledge in Cyberspace and the Practice of Ethnography

The Knowledge Question in Cyberspace 179
A Cyborg Anthropology Alternative: Realist Actor Network Theory 185
The Practice Question in Cyberspace Ethnography 191
Policy Implications of Applied Cyberspace Ethnography 203
Ethics 209

8 Conclusions

Empirical Results: What We Can Say about Cyberspace 213
Analytic Conclusions 216
On the Science Question, or Reconstructing Techno-Science Practice 220
Implications of a Cyberspace Ethnography-Based Reconstructed Techno-Science Practice 225

References Cited 229

Notes 245

Index 257