

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
1 It doesn't only happen to others	5
The crucial first 24 hours – Be ready for the unthinkable – Why crises happen more often these days – Chronic and acute crises – Expected and unexpected crises – Common denominators – A blueprint for handling the mechanics of crisis – The cost of a crisis
2 The Tylenol poisonings: a textbook case of crisis management	19
Handling the crisis – The crisis task force – A toll-free number and refund coupons – A communications media monster – Massive employee support – Surveys for different publics – A triple safety seal packaging – Almost half a million electronic messages – Massive advertising – The same nightmare – A credo philosophy behind the Tylenol decisions
3 Planning for crisis: the emergency action plan	35
Early warning design system – Anticipation and scenario writing – The crisis task force – Identifying the publics and their needs – You are in a public arena at all times – Who is responsible for dealing with the various publics? – Establish clear lines of responsibility – Attention to detail and written material – Setting up a crisis center – Identifying a spokesperson – Establish contacts with the press – Interview training – Intense media scrutiny of the chemical industry – Drills and rehearsals

4	A crisis is news	77
	Sabotage of the Rainbow Warrior: the "continuing history" effect – The press at your doorstep – Ready for inquiries from the press – Press conferences and press releases – The interview: traps and opportunities – Response plan for the press
5	Crisis negotiation	105
	Negotiation tactics – Murdoch's modernization of the British newspapers: an example of negotiation with knives on the table – Getting out of deadlock in a strike
6	Rumors: the oldest media in the world	121
	Uncontrolled rumors – Controlled rumors – Fundamentalist churches against Procter & Gamble – Fighting rumors – Rumors at the Stock Exchange
7	Financial crisis	135
	Eagle Computer's disaster on the day it went public – Hostile takeovers – How to make a merger work – Internal communications program – External communications program
8	After the crisis	161
	Disaster recovery planning – Long-term planning – Breadth of intellectual insight and flexibility
9	Checklists	167
	Planning for crisis – Handling a crisis – Dealing with the press – The interview – Accidents and natural disasters – Emergency news release form – The personal injury or death communications policy – After the crisis
	Epilogue: The Exxon Disaster, March 1989	183
	Bibliography	189
	Notes	191