

Contents*

Abstract	2
Introduction	5
1 ISDN as a New Technological System	7
2 Dynamics of Network Development	9
3 History of EC Activities	13
3.1 The Discussion Process in the Commission Before the Green Paper	15
3.2 The Green Paper	21
3.3 Disillusionment After the Green Paper	22
3.4 The Second Progress Report	30
3.5 ISDN in a New Regulatory and Economic Environment	33
4 ISDN as an Example of International Policy Coordination	35
4.1 Policy Coordination in the EC as a Conceptual Problem	35
4.2 Cooperation and Leadership	39
5 What Is in the Making – a European White Elephant or a European MITI Strategy?	42
Appendix	50
References	51
Main EC Documents	55

---

* Special thanks are owed to Cynthia Lehmann for brushing up the English and to Annette Ahrens for producing Tables 5 and 6. The paper benefited much from a discussion with Godefroy Dang-Nguyen and from critical comments by Renate Mayntz, Ralf Resch, Susanne K. Schmidt and Raymund Werle. Without the information and contributions so generously provided in interviews with many experts from the CEC, the national network operators and industry, the paper could not have been written.