

Contents

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xvi

1. The Cook and Harris High Class Moving Picture Company: Itinerant Exhibitors and the Construction of the Small-Town Movie Audience 1
2. The Regional Diversity of Moviegoing Practices 28
3. "Let's Go in to a Picture Show": The Nickelodeon 47
4. Small-Town Alternatives:
Educational, Advertising, and Religious Films and Church Shows 75
5. "You Can Have the Strand in Your Own Town":
The Struggle between Urban and Small-Town Exhibition in the Picture Palace Era 98

CONTENTS

6. The Rise of the Movie Fan	115
7. Motion Picture Story Magazine and the Gendered Construction of the Movie Fan	133
8. Photoplay Magazine , Movie Fans, and the Marketplace	150
9. Coming of Age at the Picture Show: Middle-Class Youth in the 1910s and 1920s	169
Conclusion	194
Notes	199
Bibliography	234
Index	241