

Contents

List of figures	vi
List of tables	vii
Preface and acknowledgements	viii
1. The economics of ethical leadership	1
2. Economics and anthropology – reluctant partners	20
3. An entrepreneurial theory of the firm	47
4. Entrepreneurship and the industrial revolution: a re-appraisal	83
5. Marshall on marketing	107
6. Multinational trading companies	133
7. Regional business networks	161
8. The family firm: an analysis of the dynastic motive	197
9. Cultural factors in economic growth with Andrew C. Godley	236
Index	284

Figures

3.1	Centralized synthesis with vertical division of labour between observation and synthesis and horizontal division of labour in observation	59
3.2	Rigid sectoral division of labour in synthesis	59
3.3	Flexible decentralization	60
3.4	Incremental synthesis through learning from experience	75
3.5	A distributed information synthesis with two-way information spillovers	76
6.1	Market-making intermediation in schematic form	136
6.2	Schematic illustrations of pure multinational intermediation	140
6.3	Schematic diagrams of hybrid multinational trading	143
6.4	Geographical diversification: the use of multiple connected routes to support multilateral trade	146
6.5	Information processing in multinational trading	148
6.6	Product diversification through barter trading: an example of a colonial trading post dealing in both consumer goods and raw materials	156
7.1	Relations between a region, a metropolis and the rest of the world: flows of product, factors of production and information	187
8.1	Equilibrium of two identical non-dynastic family firms	229
8.2	Equilibrium of two non-dynastic families with different levels of ability	231
8.3	Equilibrium of two dynastic firms	231
8.4	Equilibrium between a dynastic firm and a non-dynastic firm, in which members of both families are professionals	233

Tables

1.1	Types of group and their leaders	6
3.1	Key characteristics of information	52
3.2	Some types of information synthesis and their implications for the boundary of the firm	77
6.1	Two main methods of market-making intermediation	138
6.2	Integration of production and reselling	144
7.1	Typology of networks	178
9.1	Effects of moral and scientific optimism on the organization of a society, with examples	256
9.2	Effects of the degree of scientific optimism and attitudes to leadership on the organization of a society, with examples	261
9.3	Cultural changes in the UK: 500–2000	267
9.4	Summary of organizational change in the UK: 500–2000	271