

Managing Web-Enabled Technologies in Organizations: A Global Perspective

Table of Contents

Preface	i
Chapter One
Web-Enabled Technologies Assessment and Management: Critical Issues	1
Mehdi Khosrowpour, Pennsylvania State University, USA
Nancy Herman, Pennsylvania State University, USA
Chapter Two
Developing Applications for the Web: Exploring Differences	23
Between Traditional and World Wide Web Application Development
Nancy L. Russo
Northern Illinois University, USA
Chapter Three
Planning for Effective Web-Based Commerce Application Development	36
Ming-te Lu, Lingnan University, Hong Kong
W.L. Yeung, Lingnan University, Hong Kong
Chapter Four
Managing Web Technologies Acquisition, Utilization and Organization	54
Change: Understanding Sociocognitive Processual Dynamics
Mathew J. Klempa
Information Systems Consultant, USA
Chapter Five
The Five Stages of Customizing Web-Based Mass Information Systems	103
Arno Scharl
University of Economics and Business Administration, Austria

Chapter Six
Viability Through Web-Enabled Technologies	122
Dirk Vriens, University of Nijmegen, The Netherlands
Paul Hendriks, University of Nijmegen, The Netherlands
Chapter Seven
World Wide Wait	146
Fui Hoon Nah, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, USA
Kihyun Kim, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, USA
Chapter Eight
A Matter of Necessity: Implementing Web-Based Subject Administration	162
Paul Darbyshire, Victoria University of Technology, Australia
Andrew Wenn, Victoria University of Technology, Australia
Chapter Nine
Web-Based Competency and Training Management Systems	191
for Distance Learning
Tammy Whalen, University of Ottawa, Canada
David Wright, University of Ottawa, Canada
Chapter Ten
Electronic Commerce in Egypt	210
Sherif Kamel
American University in Cairo, Egypt
Chapter Eleven
Managing the Business of Web-Enabled Education and Training:	233
A Framework and Case Studies for Replacing Blackboards with Browsers for Distance Learning
Mahesh S. Raisinghani, University of Dallas, USA
David Baker, Digital Think, Inc., USA
Author Biography	256
Index	259