Contents

About the editors ix

List of abbreviations xiii

Introduction – Willem Verhoog 1

1 Is fair value fair? Expert opinions on financial reporting from an international perspective: brief impressions Willem Verhoog 5

Part I The future of international accounting 35

2 The model of Black and Scholes is like Newtonian physics before Einstein was born Robert K. Elliott

3 Current US accounting issues Norman Strauss 49

Part II Regulations and regulators 57

4 We have to produce one set of unified high-quality global standards Sir David Tweedie
5 EFRAG: a new force to be reckoned with in the reporting field
  Johan van Helleman 65

6 Not partial, but full application of IAS
  Leo G. van der Tas 77

7 IAS and the European Union
  Karel Van Hulle 85

8 IAS and legislation
  Jan Klaassen 93

9 Shifting towards an Anglo-Saxon perspective on rules
  Egbert Eeftink 103

10 Uniform rules are important, but they must not block the view
  Jean den Hoed 113

Part III  Supervision and compliance

11 Towards a new supervisory landscape
  Paul M. Koster 123

12 The Enterprise and Companies Court as supervisory body
  J. (Huub) H. M. Willems 133

13 Globalisation is OK, as long as it takes account of Dutch culture
  M. (Rien) A. van Hoepen 145

14 Enforcement of IAS is crucial for the realisation of a global standard for financial reporting
  Ruud G. A. Vergoossen 159

Part IV  IAS and the users of financial statements

15 Unambiguous rules, timely reports and close supervision
  Peter-Paul F. de Vries 171

16 The supervisory director: striking the right balance
  Paul C. van den Hoek 179
17 Insurers are lagging behind
   Lou Traas

18 Double Dutch in financial reporting: highly flexible = extremely judgmental?
   Henk P. A. J. Langendijk

19 The auditor is gratefully back on his pedestal
   Pieter T. Lakeman

Part V  Fair Value Accounting

20 The irrepressible advance of Fair Value Accounting
   Martin N. Hoogendoorn

21 From profit smoothing to a true and fair presentation of profits at insurance companies and pension funds
   Alfred Oosenbrug

22 Introduction of Fair Value Accounting: little if any haste
   Kees J. Storm

23 Fair Value Accounting will result in less transparency and more volatility in banks’ financial reporting
   Bert Bruggink

24 Financial statements are a result of policy and not a factor informing policy
   Joost G. Groeneveld

25 Financial reporting and the search for truth
   Dirk M. Swagerman

26 Warning signals about the application of fair value for financial instruments
   Tricia O’Malley and Petri Hofsté

Part VI  Capita selecta: external financial reporting and law

27 IAS: right or wrong?
   Hans Beckman
Part VII  External financial reporting and new-economy companies

28  The valuation of new-economy companies
    Auke de Bos

Part VIII  International financial reporting by governments

29  IPSAS and financial reporting by the Dutch government
    Aad D. Bac

Part IX  The relationship between management accounting and financial accounting

30  Interaction between internal and external reporting
    Ed G. J. Vosselman

Part X  Business combination accounting

31  A creative approach to mergers and acquisitions
    Jos M. J. Blommaert

Epilogue: Toward a single global reporting system

Index