

Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Part I: Of Racism and Representation

- 1 Introduction: Revisiting Racism and Cinema 3
- 2 The Birth of a (Racist) Nation(al) Cinema 29

Part II: Cinema and the Maintenance of Privilege

- 3 The Gods Must Be Crazy (Privileged, but Crazy) 57
- 4 Driving Miss Daisy (Because She's White and I'm Not) 75
- 5 Mississippi (and History) Burning 95

Part III: Confronting Racism and Representation

- 6 A World Apart (from the World of Privilege) 117
- 7 School Daze and the Politics of Appropriation 137
- 8 Do the Right Thing: Style as Confrontation 153

9	Daughters of the Dust and the Figurative as Mode of Resistance	173
10	The Great White Man of Lambarene and the Limits of Representation	191
	Epilogue: Racism, Representation, and the Role of Theory	211
	Bibliography	219
	Index	00