I  Scope and Methods of Applied Demography

The Field and Scope of Applied Demography  1
  Definition of Applied Demography  1
  Work of Applied Demographers  3
  Definition of Demographics  5
Census and Demographic Concepts  5
Selected General Demographic Relations and Processes  6
  Population Estimating Equation and Its Variants  6
  Cohort Data and Cohort Analysis  9
  Effect of Birth Fluctuations on Age Changes  10
Selected General Measures  11
  Ratios, Proportions, and Rates  11
  Average Measures  12
  Observed versus Adjusted Measures  17
Selected Specialized Measures  19
  The Life Table  19
  Residual Estimation of Demographic Changes  22
  Model Construction  23
  Some Measures of Inequality and
    Geographic Concentration  25
2 Recent Population Trends and Prospects and Interrelations with Selected Social and Economic Programs

Recent Population Trends and Prospects 34
- Population Size and Age-Sex Structure 34
- Fertility, Mortality, and Immigration 37
- Marriage and Households 42
- Socioeconomic Characteristics and Population Redistribution 45

Interrelations with Various Social and Economic Programs 54
- General Note 54
- Education 54
- Housing 58
- Local Transit and Commuting 61
- Federal Tax Collection 64
- Demography of Almost Anything 66

Limitations of Demographic Determinism 70
Appendix A: Data for States, Metropolitan Areas, and Cities 71
Appendix B: Note on Foreign Population Trends 80
Notes 83
Suggested Readings 85

3 Basic Sources of Demographic and Socioeconomic Data and Ways of Accessing Them

Introduction 87
Federal Sources 88
- Federal Statistical Agencies 88
- Bureau of the Census: Population and Housing Censuses 89
- National Center for Health Statistics 115
- Immigration and Naturalization Service 116
- Other Federal Agencies 120
- Major National Sample Surveys 120
- Economic Censuses, Economic Surveys, and Administrative Records 126

Nonfederal Sources 127
- State and Local Sources 127
- Commercial Data-Vending Companies 128

Administrative Records as Sources of Demographic Data 129
- General Considerations 129
- Limitations and Issues 131
4 Limitations of Census and Survey Data

Introduction 145
Nonsampling/Response Errors 147
  Coverage Error 148
  Reporting Error 163
  Lack of a Perfect Standard 170
Errors Due to Sampling 170
  Sampling Error 170
  Other Errors Due to Sampling 174
Confidentiality Issues and Solutions 175
  Confidentiality Issues 175
  Confidentiality Solutions 176
Notes 178
Suggested Readings 180

5 Geodemography: Geographic Area Concepts and Information Systems for Demographic Applications

Geographic Area Classification Systems 183
  Census Geographic Categories 184
  Political Areas 185
  Other Administrative Areas 187
  Statistical Areas 187
Geometric Data Retrieval Methods, Geographic Information Systems, and TIGER 198
  Geometric Data Retrieval Methods 198
  Geographic Information Systems 201
  TIGER 201
  Applications of GIS and TIGER 204
Spatial Demographic Analysis 207
  Illustrative Techniques 207
  Maps 208
Appendix A: List of Abbreviations for Census Geographic Areas and Related Concepts 212
Appendix B: Note on International Variations in Administrative Divisions 213
Notes 215
Suggested Readings 216
6 Demographic Applications in Business Planning

Interface of Marketing and Demography 220

Some Concepts of Marketing 220

Demographic and Related Elements Characterizing Potential Buyers 221

Illustrative Tasks of Demographers in Business Planning 223

Classification Systems and Selected Concepts 224

Methods of Measuring the Characteristics of Customers 227

Analysis of Sales Records and Exit Surveys 227

Mail Surveys and Questionnaires Accompanying Products 228

Audience Measurement by Diary, Meter, or Internet Contacts 231

Factors Affecting Business Siting and Sales Forecasting 232

Market Segmentation 232

Demographic Factors 233

Nondemographic Factors 237

Measuring the Contribution of Relevant Factors 239

Use of Multiple Linear Regression Analysis 240

Delimiting the Trading Area 242

Compliance with Regulations Relating to the Conduct of Businesses 247

Housing Discrimination 248

Environmental Equity 251

Antitrust and Other Regulatory Areas 253

Applications of Demographic Techniques to Consumer Behavior, Services, and Products 254

Cohort Analysis and Standardization 254

Applications to Manufactured Products 256

Life Tables 260

The Internal Client Population 291

The Workforce 291
Use of Demographic Data and Methods by Nonprofit Organizations in Community Action 292
The External Client Population 292
The Internal Client Population 293
Use of Demographic Data and Methods in Local Government Planning and Community Action 293
Indicators of the Local Demographic Situation and Local Needs 301
Illustrations of Program Applications 307
Measuring the Utilization of Institutions 313
Jury Selection 313
Compliance with Regulations Relating to the Conduct of Public and Private Nonprofit Organizations 317
Some Issues in the Interface of Demography and Education 317
Demographic Targeting in Law Enforcement 322
Appendix A: Alternative Life-Table Methods of Estimating the Chance of Ever Entering a Nursing Home 324
Notes 325
Suggested Readings 327

8 The Demography of the Labor Force and of the Workforce of Organizations

Introduction 330
Types of Workforces 330
The Labor Force Concept 330
Demographic Processes and Characteristics 332
Basic Demographic Processes and Categories of Workers 332
Basic Demographic Changes and Characteristics 333
Employment Prospects and Promotions 340
Retirement 341
Tables of Working Life 344
Methods of Construction 344
Availability of Tables 348
Illustrative Results and Applications 353
Experimental Tables of Employment Expectancies 354
Stationary Models for Staffing and Measuring Retirement Costs 358
Special Workforces 358
Armed Forces 358
Catholic Priests 360
Demographic Aspects of Employer Administrative Records 364
Types and Limitations 364
Applications 365
Compliance with Regulations Relating to Staff Management 371
Legislative Background 371
Race/Ethnic Discrimination in Employment 372
Sex Discrimination in Employment 378
