Contents

Preface iii
Biographical notes ix

Introduction  Alan Cowling
The importance of effective human resource management. The role of line management. Policy and practice. Arguments for good human resource management. The role of the personnel or human resource department.

1 Developing a strategy for human resources  Alan Cowling

2 Matching people and jobs  Alan Cowling

3 Recruitment and selection  Alan Cowling
The process of recruitment. Selection tests. The practical application of selection methods. Discrimination, equal opportunities and monitoring selection methods.

4 Interviewing in practice  Alan Cowling
General guidelines to good interviewing. Specific interviews and counselling. Interviewing as a social skill. The need for training.

5 Training and learning  Alan Anderson
The rationale for training. Linking learning with training. Training models and cycles. The role of the trainer. The role of the learner. Achieving a balance.
6 The appraisal and development of managers
Alan Cowling

7 Organisation development and change  Allan Williams
Main influences on OD. OD interventions and technology. Effective use of OD resources.

8 Pay policy and the management of rewards  Alan Cowling

9 Welfare at work  Max Eggert

10 Employee relations  Phil James

11 The legal framework of employment  Brenda Barrett

12 Manpower planning, information and control
Alan Cowling

Index