

Contents

Tables and figures	vi
Preface	vii
Abbreviations	viii
1) The causes and consequences of reduced hours	1
2) Fewer hours, higher productivity? A review of research	33
3) The consequences of the CSEU campaign	60
4) Further issues and general conclusions	84
5) Factory reports	106
6) Conclusions and policy implications	133
Appendix One Basic and total weekly hours of male manual workers	149
Appendix Two Shorter working week questionnaire	150
References	156
Author index	164
Subject index	167

Tables and figures

Table 1.1	Basic hours of full-time male manual workers 1981-84	3
Table 1.2	Basic hours of full-time male manual workers 1989-95	6
Table 1.3	Working hours preferences	11
Table 1.4	Men and women preferring shorter hours	12
Table 1.5	Choice between fewer hours and more pay	13
Table 1.6	Total hours of full-time manual workers (WIRS 1990)	17
Table 1.7	Basic hours of full-time manual workers (WIRS 1990)	18
Table 2.1	Approach to shorter hours in 1981 and productivity outcomes	38
Table 3.1	Factories by selection criteria	62
Table 3.2	Major methods of finance in 83 reported agreements	73
Table 4.1	Increases in contractual and actual time	92
Table 4.2	Managers' responses on effect if hours not reduced	100
Table A1	Basic and total weekly hours of male manual workers	149
Figure 1.1a	Basic and total hours of male manual workers, 1943-70	4
Figure 1.1b	Basic and total hours of male manual workers, 1970-95	5