

Contents

|  |             |
|--|-------------|
| Acknowledgements                                      | xi   |
| Introduction  | xiii |
| 1 Popular cinema: the Hollywood system                | 1    |
| The rise of the Hollywood studio system                      | 2           |
| The emergence of cinema                               | 4           |
| Early popular cinema                                  | 8           |
| The coming of sound                                   | 12          |
| The studio system  | 14          |
| The decline of the studio system                             | 17          |
| The package-unit system                                      | 20          |
| 2 Popular cinema: Hollywood narrative and film genres | 25   |
| The narrative and ideology of the Hollywood film             | 26          |
| The American dream                                    | 26          |
| The Hollywood narrative                               | 28          |

CONTENTS

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| Narrative and ideology                  | 34         |
| Genre, popular culture and popular cinema      | 39         |
| Conclusions                                    | 49         |
| 3 The gangster film                     | 53  |
| The gangster film                              | 54         |
| Cultural realism                               | 55         |
| The Hollywood system and the gangster film     | 56         |
| Ideology and the gangster film                 | 68         |
| 4 The horror film                       | 79  |
| The horror film                                | 80         |
| Definitions of horror                          | 82         |
| Cycles of horror                               | 86         |
| Universal and the 'horror classics'     | 86         |
| Psychological horror                    | 90         |
| Horror and science fiction in the 1950s | 91         |
| Teenage horror                          | 95         |
| Hammer horror                           | 98         |
| Modern horror and modern society        | 101        |
| The 'slasher' film                      | 105        |
| Modern horror and modern Hollywood      | 107        |
| Theories of horror                             | 110        |
| 5 Film noir                             | 115 |
| What is film noir ?                     | 116        |
| Defining film noir                      | 118        |
| Gender and film noir                    | 124        |
| Explanations of film noir               | 131        |
| Film noir as a reflection of society    | 132        |
| Cultural interpretations of film noir   | 134        |
| Political influences                    | 137        |
| Economic explanations                   | 140        |
| Conclusions                                    | 144        |

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| 6 Popular television: citizenship, consumerism and television in the UK | 151 |
| Citizenship and consumerism  | 153        |
| Public service broadcasting  | 157        |
| The formation of the BBC   | 158        |
| Commercial television and public service broadcasting                          | 160        |
| The introduction of commercial television                               | 160        |
| Channel 4   | 165        |
| Consumerism, citizenship and video, cable and satellite television      | 167        |
| 7 The television audience   | 173 |
| The 'effects' of popular television upon audiences                             | 179        |
| The 'uses and gratifications' approach to popular television and the audience  | 183        |
| Semiology, theory and audience studies   | 186        |
| Conclusions: audiences and power   | 194        |
| 8 Popular television genres   | 201 |
| A general introduction   | 202        |
| The production of popular television genres                                    | 210        |
| The structure of popular television genres                                     | 217        |
| Production, audiences and genres   | 220        |
| Audiences and the soap opera   | 222        |
| 9 Popular television and postmodernism                                  | 229 |
| The mass media, culture and society  | 231        |
| Consumption, style and meaning   | 234        |
| Popular culture, fragmentation and identity                                    | 237        |
| Conclusion   | 244        |
| Conclusion  | 251        |
| Notes   | 259        |
| Bibliography  | 267        |
| Index   | 279        |