Contents

Foreword by Stuart T. Hauser  page ix
Preface  xv

1 Epidemiology of Chronic Illnesses in Adolescence  1
2 Coping with Illness in Adolescence: An Overview of Research from the Past 25 Years  9
3 Coping with Diabetes: A Longitudinal Study  25
4 Knowledge of the Illness, Compliance, and Patient–Physician Relationships  42
5 Self-Concept, Body Image, and Perceived Health  63
6 Adolescent, Parental, and Family Coping with Stressors  84
7 Chronic Illness and the Family: The Perspectives of Mothers, Fathers, and Siblings  118
8 Friendships, Romantic Relationships, School, and Career  166
9 Successful Adaptation or the Development of Psychopathology?  203
10 Pathways for Resolving the Dilemma between Developmental Progression and Adaptation to the Illness  232
11 Implications for Prevention and Intervention  259

References  281
Index  319