
Contents

Contributors	vii
Preface	xi
Introduction	xiii
I Epidemiology and Pathophysiology
1 Epidemiology and pathogenesis of hypertension in people with diabetes mellitus Bryan Williams	3
2 Hypertension, macrovascular disease and diabetes mellitus: perspectives from the Framingham Study William B Kannel and Peter WF Wilson	25
3 Does insulin resistance play a role in the pathogenesis and clinical course of patients with hypertension? Gerald M Reaven	43
4 Dyslipidaemia: implications for cardiovascular risk in hypertensive diabetic subjects D John Betteridge	61
5 Disturbances in 24-hour blood pressure regulation in diabetic subjects Philip Weston and King Sun Leong	87
6 The unique vulnerability of diabetic subjects to hypertensive injury Bryan Williams	99
II Target Organ Damage
7 Hypertension, microvascular function and diabetes mellitus John E Tooke and Angela C Shore	111
8 Diabetic retinopathy and hypertension Vinod Patel and Eva Kohner	121
9 Diabetes and the heart Adam D Timmis	151
10 Diabetic cardiomyopathy Bryan Williams, Subhbinder Bassi and David O'Brien	175
11 The pathogenesis of diabetic nephropathy Richard E Gilbert and Mark E Cooper	191
12 The clinical implications and management of microalbuminuria and proteinuria in type 1 diabetes Stephen M Thomas and Giancolo F Viberti	203

13	The clinical implications and management of microalbuminuria and proteinuria in type II diabetic subjects Mark E Cooper	219
14	Renovascular disease in diabetes: clinical implications for the management of hypertension Bryan Williams and David O'Brien	237
III Treatment of Hypertension in Diabetic Subjects
15	The management of hypertension and diabetes: guidelines and blood pressure targets Munavvar Izhar and George L Bakris	253
16	Non-pharmacological strategies for blood pressure control in diabetic subjects R Nithiyananthan and Paul M Dodson	267
17	The pharmacological treatment of hypertension in diabetes Bryan Williams	285
18	Pharmacological treatment of hypertension in pregnant diabetic subjects Joanna C Girling, Andrew H Shennan and Aidan WF Halligan	321
	Index	341