

CONTENTS

PREFACE	xiii
SECTION I AN INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC RELATIONS PR is still much misunderstood, as a profession and in what it can, and cannot, achieve, as well as its relationships with other activities.	1
1: WHAT IS PUBLIC RELATIONS? The place of PR; Aspects of PR; PR techniques	3
2: PUBLIC RELATIONS AND OTHER DISCIPLINES The role of public relations alongside other professional disciplines: Marketing and advertising; Personnel; Corporate and financial	10
3: THE PUBLIC RELATIONS BUSINESS A look at the different ways in which PR is practised: Consultancy or in-house; Advertising	16
4: SETTING OBJECTIVES Basic management of PR: Communications audit; Setting objectives	23
5: PUBLIC RELATIONS STRATEGIES AND PROGRAMMES Preparing a public relations programme and taking a strategic approach: Developing a strategy; PR proposals and programmes	29
6: PREPARING A BUDGET Costing public relations: The structure of a PR budget	36

Contents

SECTION II MEDIA RELATIONS	41
For many, media relations is the single most important element in PR. It should never be an end in itself, but instead it should be a recognition of the power of the media
7: INTRODUCING THE MEDIA	43
The media in the United Kingdom: The general press; Trade and professional publications; Special interest publications; Broadcasting
8: MEDIA RELATIONS	49
Media relations is a major aspect of PR work in most organizations: Into the news; Features; Photographs
9: DEVELOPING MEDIA RELATIONS	57
Greater detail on the day-to-day practical aspects of media relations: Establishing relationships; Meeting the press
10: MANAGING AND TARGETING NEWS AND FEATURES	66
Good media coverage doesn't just happen, it needs planning and development: Points for targeting and managing news and features
11: PHOTOGRAPHY	73
A picture is worth a thousand words, or more, if it is really worthwhile: Commissioning photography; Organising photography; Maintaining a photo library
12: MAKING THE MOST OF RESEARCH	81
Research material is often of interest to more than just those commissioning it, and can boost an organization's credibility and its media coverage
SECTION III FINANCIAL AND CORPORATE RELATIONS	85
Financial communications really belongs only to publicly-quoted companies, and those anticipating a quotation, but corporate relations, and especially corporate identity, has a far wider field
13: INVESTOR RELATIONS	87
Establishing relationships with the City: Shareholder communication; Supporting services
14: CORPORATE PUBLIC RELATIONS AND IDENTITY	94
Developing the image of the organization: Corporate identity; Mission statements and philosophy

Contents

15: MANAGING CORPORATE IDENTITY	102
Managing a corporate identity programme: Investigation; Implementation; Monitoring
SECTION IV EMPLOYEE COMMUNICATIONS	109
Most organizations recognize that good communications with their employees are an essential element in success
16: EMPLOYEE COMMUNICATIONS	111
Communicating with internal audiences
17: MEDIA FOR EMPLOYEE COMMUNICATIONS	117
The range of media available has never been wider, but costs and benefits vary: Circulars and notices; Periodicals; Audio and video programmes; Conferences; Meetings and briefings; External resources
18: PREPARING MANAGEMENT AND SELECTION OF MEDIA	130
Managers as communicators, and their importance in employee communications and the impact on the choice of media: Preparing the manager; Messages and media; Linking different media; Summary
SECTION V POLITICAL AND COMMUNITY RELATIONS	137
Organizations of all kinds become involved in political and community relationships
19: PARLIAMENTARY LIAISON	139
Relationships with legislators: Lobbying; Legislation in the UK
20: COMMUNITY RELATIONS	145
Communicating with the community and local government: Local government; Pressure groups; Local community relations
SECTION VI SPONSORSHIP	151
Sponsorship is an activity which is often misunderstood, and not used properly. There is confusion on the part of those offering sponsorship as much as on the part of those seeking it
21: MANAGING AND DEVELOPING SPONSORSHIP	153
Not always part of PR, nevertheless PR is usually involved to a greater or lesser extent, and could be on either side of the fence: The sponsor's approach; Looking for sponsorship; Sponsorship agreements

SECTION VII EVENTS	165
An event can be an important PR activity in its own right, or a platform for other operations, including media relations
22: ORGANIZING EVENTS	167
Opportunities for PR: Openings; Open days; Conferences
23: PUBLIC RELATIONS AT EXHIBITIONS	172
The role of the PR function in supporting exhibition attendance by the organization: Public relations opportunities
24: EXHIBITION STAND MANAGEMENT	177
Exhibitions are hard work, but effective if handled well: Participation and positioning; Stand design; Exhibition stand management
25: OPENINGS AND INAUGURATIONS	184
The grand opening day or the start of a new service, often provides good PR opportunities, if the planning is handled well
26: CONFERENCES	187
Opportunities to promote the organization or its people: Making the most of a conference speaker; Conferences for internal audiences; PR and conference organization
SECTION VIII THE APPLICATION OF PUBLIC RELATIONS	191
PR is not an academic exercise, but has to be related to the problems of organizations which will often be heavily dependent upon PR techniques for success
27: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR THE CONSUMER	193
Considerations to be taken into account in mass market PR: Understanding the product; organizing effective consumer PR; Checklist
28: BUSINESS-TO-BUSINESS PUBLIC RELATIONS	198
Promoting the company and the product to the corporate market: Characteristics of the business-to-business market
29: SUPPORTING THE PRODUCT	201
Product PR is important, but understanding the product and the benefits comes first: Preparing for the launch; Following the launch; Programme preparation

Contents

30: TRADE ASSOCIATIONS AND PROFESSIONAL BODIES	209
Increasingly, institutions and trade associations are making effective use of PR
31: CHARITIES AND PRESSURE GROUPS	214
To the pressure group, PR is essential, but charities today often have similar problems and objectives
32: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR PRIMARY INDUSTRY	219
Prone to controversy, primary industries such as mining and energy extraction present a challenge to the PR practitioner:
Issues affecting primary industry; PR disciplines for primary industry
33: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY	225
Manufacturers have different profiles and different requirements for PR:
Issues affecting manufacturing industry; PR disciplines for manufacturing industry
34: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR THE DISTRIBUTIVE TRADES	234
Wholesalers and retailers use PR to varying degrees:
Issues affecting the distributive trades; PR disciplines for the distributive trades
35: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR UTILITIES	238
Essential to business and the public alike, public utilities need defensive as well as promotional PR, and increasingly need to present themselves to the City audience:
Issues affecting utilities; PR disciplines for utilities
36: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR TRANSPORT AND TRAVEL	243
One of the more glamorous sectors for public relations, providing all goes well:
Issues affecting transport and travel; PR disciplines for transport and travel
37: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR FINANCIAL SERVICES	250
In recent years, financial services such as banks, building societies, insurance, and increasingly stockbroking, have come to adopt a higher profile:
Issues affecting financial services; PR disciplines for financial services
38: PUBLIC RELATIONS FOR THE PUBLIC SERVICES	256
Government at all levels, and quasi-governmental bodies, all require PR:
Issues affecting government and the public services; PR disciplines for government and the public services

Contents

SECTION IX DEVELOPING PUBLIC RELATIONS SKILLS AND ACTIVITIES	263
As experience increases, the PR practitioner will be expected to tackle the more controversial matters and provide more extensive support. A management or executive role provides other challenges
39: CRISIS MANAGEMENT	265
A crisis can mean different things to different organizations and at different times:
Preparing for a crisis; Basic texts; Aftermath; Checklist
40: ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE	274
PR has a fundamental role at a time of change:
Changing ownership; Senior management change; Relocation; New machinery or working practices; Changing cultures; Changing structures
41: PUBLIC RELATIONS CAREER DEVELOPMENT	284
Careers in PR, and the recruitment and development of PR people:
Recruitment for PR; Induction; Developing PR skills
42: TARGETING AUDIENCES	293
Assessing the audience for the PR message:
Defining targets; Internal relations
43: PUBLIC RELATIONS AND THE ENVIRONMENT	298
Environmental problems are dealt with in individual 'section' chapters, but there are problems common to all:
Environmental awareness; PR and the environment
44: SPEECHES AND PRESENTATIONS	302
Guidelines on drafting speeches and preparing for presentations:
Speech writing; Presentations
45: ASSESSING THE RESULTS	306
How effective is PR? How does one judge?
Research; Monitoring press and broadcast coverage; Communications audits; PR by results
SECTION X ANCILLARY SERVICES	311
Sometimes a nuisance, sometimes essential, a number of other activities can be embraced by PR

Contents

46: PROMOTIONAL ITEMS	313
Sometimes part of marketing, sometimes PR, promotional items have become a necessary element for many companies, and for different reasons
47: DESIGN AND PRINT	315
Using these services cost-effectively:
Selecting design services; Print buying
SECTION XI PUBLIC RELATIONS TODAY AND TOMORROW	321
What does the future hold?
48: ETHICS AND ACCOUNTABILITY	323
The best PR people have to have standards on a par with those of the solicitor or priest
49: PUBLIC RELATIONS AND THE ORGANIZATION	327
Who uses PR, and where should it fit into organizational structures?
50: CHANGES IN THE MEDIA	332
The media in the UK, and elsewhere, are changing, and sometimes being forced to change:
Media regulation; Media developments; Content; Media people
51: SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL CHANGE	339
PR in a changing environment
Appendix	343
INDEX	352