

CONTENTS

Introduction

ix

PART I

Perspectives from the Philosophy of Science

- |    |   |     |
|----|---|-----|
| 1. | Logical Empiricism, 1922–1970             | 3   |
| 2. | Popper and His Followers                  | 29  |
| 3. | Kuhn and Stegmüller                       | 55  |
| 4. | Pragmatism                                | 75  |
| 5. | Hermeneutics: The Interpretation of Texts | 104 |

PART II

Social Science Studies Itself

- |     |  |     |
|-----|--|-----|
| 6.  | Macrosociology of Social Science         | 149 |
| 7.  | Microsociology of Social Science         | 181 |
| 8.  | Science Politics                         | 207 |
| 9.  | Cognitive Processes in Social Science    | 242 |
| 10. | Personality Influences in Social Science | 273 |

PART III

Putting It All Together

- |     |   |     |
|-----|---|-----|
| 11. | How Does Social Science Produce Knowledge?    | 303 |
| 12. | Problems and Dangers on the Road of Knowledge | 327 |

Technical Notes

References

Index