1.1	Profits in the Hotelling game	25
1.2	Entry game in extensive form	31
1.3	Simultaneous game with complete information	32
1.4	Simultaneous game with incomplete information	33
1.5	Feasible payoffs of game G	39
1.6	Feasible payoffs for the repeated Cournot game	41
2.1	Possible collusive outcomes with and without side payments	50
3.1	The 'generic' entry game payoffs	68
3.2	The four phases of constrained Cournot equilibrium for duopoly	71
3.3	Firm 2's reaction correspondence	72
4.1	Linear locations of products	87
4.2	The distributions of consumers' locations and consumers' mismatch costs	88
4.3	Locations as quality levels	89
4.4	End segments and 'spikes' of density	91
4.5	Locations around the arc of a circle	94
4.6	Quality differentiation as product locations	99
4.7	Product choices for consumers	100
4.8	A natural monopoly or not?	101
4.9	A natural duopoly or not?	102
5.1	Quasi-linear preferences and demand	114
5.2	First-degree discrimination	116
5.3	Two-part tariffs	117
5.4	Non-linear prices	119
5.5	Optimal non-linear prices	121
5.6	Third-degree discrimination	122
5.7	A simple spatial market	125
5.8	Bertrand-Nash	129
5.9	Linear v. non-linear outlay schedule	132
5.10	Option between a uniform price and a two-part tariff	133
7.1	Post-innovation consumers' surplus, gross profits and welfare loss	162
7.2	Demand functions and optimal patent breadth	166

7.3	Optimal patent life vs optimal patentability standards	171
7.4	Second-best and free-entry industry structure under a permissive ideas-based patent regime	183
7.5	Permissive product- vs ideas-based patent regimes	184
8.1	Competitive equilibrium	194
8.2	Monopsony equilibrium	195
8.3	Competitive equilibrium with supervision costs	199
8.4	Competitive equilibrium with leadership as well as supervision	202
8.5	Competitive equilibrium with capital constraints	204
8.6	Equilibrium with heterogeneous expectations	206
8.7	Equilibrium with a sophisticated merchant financed by the banking system	210
