

Contents

Preface	vii
1. The Birth of the Mass Age	1
The Changing Order	1
Emergence of the Masses	4
Liberalism, Democracy and Capitalism	7
The Demand for Advertising	11
The Quality of Life	15
2. The Changing Face of Capitalism	21
A Perception of Human Nature	21
The Puritan Ethos	23
Decline of Consumer Sovereignty	30
Strength of the New Capitalism	33
3. The Consumer Society	37
The Ideology of Consumerism	37
Socially Determined Value	44
Advertising and the Promotion of Materialism	46
Democracy and Materialism	51
4. The Social Role of Advertising	56
Contending Positions	56
Advertising as a Social Authority	61
Advertising Consumerism	65
Needs and Wants	68
Stereotypes of Class, Race and Sex	69
Advertisers and Media Control	79
5. The Advertisers' Perspective	84
Economic Arguments	84
Rational Choice and Human Nature	88
The Psychology of Persuasion	95
Assessing Effects	101
Truth in Advertising	105

6. The Liberal Democratic Ideal	109
Liberalism and Democracy	109
Theories of Democracy	115
The Psychological Perspective	127
7. Democracy and the Market	131
Democracy and Elections	131
Rational Choice Models	133
The Political Marketplace	136
Contrasting Political and Commercial Advertising	145
8. Conclusions	150
The Democratic Dilemma	150
Imperfections of Information	154
Image Politics	155
The Outlook	158
Notes and References	161
Bibliography	175
Index	187