Contents

List of Figures ix
Acknowledgement xi
Preface xii
Multiple Choice Question Bank xiii

1 A Framework for Analyzing Organizational Behaviour Mike Smith 1

Cross-Cultural Research 5

2 Analysing Jobs: The Manager and the Job Mike Smith and Lynn Davidson 7

Uses of Job Analysis 9
Methods of Analysing Jobs 9
The Accuracy of Job Analyses 13
Job Families 15
Analyses of the Managerial Job 16
Expert Analyses of Managerial Jobs 18
Work Activity School 19
Implications for Management Training 23
Women in Management 24

3 Selection in Organizations Mike Smith 28

The People Make the Place 28
The Selection Paradigm 29
Fairness in Selection 44
Estimating the Utility of Selection 45
Outplacement 47

4 Training in Organizations Mike Smith 49

Agencies involved in Training 49
Establishing Organizational Goals 51
Training Needs Analysis 53
Task Analysis 54
Choice of Training Methods 57
The Psychology of Learning 65
Delivering Training 71
Evaluation of Training 74

5 Motivation in Organizations Peter L. Wright 77

Introduction 77
Content Theories of Motivation 78
Process Theories of Motivation 86
Implications of Motivation Theory for the Practising Manager 96

6 Communication in Organizations Richard S. Williams 103

The Purposes of Communication in Organizations 104
Methods of Communication in Organizations 110
What is Communicated 112
Assessing the Effectiveness of Communication in Organizations 114
Barriers to Communication 117
Communication as a Psychological Process 118
Improving Communication Effectiveness 123

7 Stress in Organizations Cary L. Cooper 127

The Job of Management 130
The Manager's Role in the Organization 132
Relationships at Work 136
The Managerial Career 139
Organizational Climate 141
Home:Work Interface Stresses 142
Marriage Patterns 143
Mobility 144
The Type A Manager 146

The Management of Stress 148
Conclusion 149

8 Working in Groups Robin Martin 154

The Nature of Work Groups 155
Group Processes 157
Group Structure 166
Developing Effective Work Groups 171
Summary 174

9 Organizations, Structures, and Processes Dian-Marie Hosking 178

Early Approaches to the Design and Management of Organizations 179
The Human Relations Approach 187
Organic Systems Approaches 191
Organizing: Political, Cognitive and Social Processes 196

10 Leadership and Supervision Mike Smith 206

Definitions of Leadership 207
Types of Leaders 207
Formal and Informal Leaders 208
Traits of Leadership 209
One-Dimensional Leadership Styles: Autocracy–Democracy 210
Two-Dimensional Leadership Styles: Authority and Consideration 214
Three-Factor Leadership 217
Newer Theories of Leadership 220
The Resurrection of Trait Theory 223
Cynical Views of Leadership 225

11 Change in Organizations Stephen Fineman 228

Assumptions and Techniques 229
Perspective 1: Organizations are Rational/Behaviouristic 230
Perspective 2: Human Needs, Human Resources 234

Organization Development 237
Team and Individual Interventions 239
Perspective 3: Coalitions, Constructions and Performances 240
Case Study – Change: Politics and Passion 241
Symbols and Change 245
Conclusion 248

12 You and Your Career Mike Smith 251

The Stages of Men's Careers 251
The Stages of Women's Careers 256
A Survivor's Guide to Managing your Career 257
Getting a Job 257
The Tactics of Promotion 269
Keeping Track of your Career 272

Author Index 275
Subject Index 280

List of Figures

1.1 The organizational psychology paradigm 2
2.1 Checklist Two: advantages and disadvantages of 10 methods of job analysis 10
2.2 How managers spend their time 20
2.3 Representation of women in occupational groups 25
3.1 The selection paradigm 29
3.2 Validity of some methods of selection 34
4.1 The training paradigm 52
4.2 Gagne's hierarchy of intellectual skills 55
5.1 Maslow's need hierarchy 82
5.2 Hackman and Oldham's job characteristics model 85
5.3 An expectancy model of motivation and job satisfaction 88
5.4 Extrinsic outcomes and work performance 98
6.1 Employers' reasons for communicating to employees 105
6.2 Types of communication activity amongst work colleagues 109
6.3 Methods of communication 110
6.4 Information most commonly provided by employers 113
6.5 A summary of the main barriers to communication 119
6.6 An information-processing model of communication 120
6.7 Strategies for improving communication effectiveness 124
7.1 Sources of occupational stress 129
8.1 Tuckman's stages of group development (1965) 158

8.2 Three types of group interaction 161
8.3 Different types of communication networks 170
8.4 Ten blockages to effective team work 173
10.1 Comparison of one-dimensional models of leadership style 211
10.2 Comparison of two-dimensional models of leadership style 215
10.3 Relationship between LPC score, performance and octant of situation as predicted by Fiedler 219
12.1 Super and Hall's model of career paths 253
12.2 Schematised diagram showing the relationship between age and ability from two kinds of studies 255