

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1. Introduction	1
New Paradigms for Old	5
Theorization in the Postmodern Era	8
A Postmodern Theory of Explanation	9
The Author's Dilemma	10
Overview of the Book	11
2. Anthropological and Sociological Approaches	14
Anthropological Theories	15
Sociological Theories	25
3. Psychological Theories Concerning Explanation	40
Social Learning Theories	40
Theories of Social Cognition	42
Personal Construct Theory	58
Dialectical Theories	62
Overview	69
4. Alternative Empirical Approaches	71
Early Work on 'Lay Explanations' for Health and Illness	72
Contemporary Work on 'Lay Explanations'	73
The 'Folklore' Approach	73
Research Into Social Determinants	83
Studies of Explanatory Sympatricity	93
5. In Search of Social Constructionist Research Methods	113
Experiments	113

Psychometric Methods	117
Interviews	121
Observation	123
Cultural Analysis	124
Q Methodology	126
Modernist and Postmodernist Methods	133
Dialectic Research	133
6. Studies of Explanatory Diversity	135
Derivation of the Q-set	135
Participants	138
Materials	138
Results	138
Account Diversity	154
Alternative Portrayals of the Role of Medicine	161
Conclusions	165
7. Explanations of Responsibility and Blame	166
Accounting for Misfortunes	166
Work with the Original 'Locus of Control Scale'	168
The Development of a 'Health Locus of Control Scale'	170
Studies Using Health Locus of Control with British Samples	173
Attempts to Reformulate the Scale	175
Deconstructing the Health Locus of Control Scale	176
The Study	177
Multidimensional Health Locus (MHLC) of Control Data	179
IHI Scale Responses	182
Interpreting the Deconstruction	189
Q-Sort Responses	191
Overall Conclusions	205
8. Cultural Analysis	208
Alternative Accounts	208
Explanation	226
Appendix 1: Q-Set Used in Study 1	236
Appendix 2: Items used for IHI Questionnaire	240
Bibliography	249
Index	269