

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
List of contributors	ix
Preface	xii
1. Editorial introduction Tony Champion and Tony Fielding	1
Part I: Migration Differentials
2. Migration patterns and trends David Owen and Anne Green	17
Part II: Migration and Housing
3. Housing market restructuring: consequences for migration Moira Munro	41
4. House-price differentials, housing wealth and migration Chris Hamnett	55
5. Planning practice, housing supply and migration James Barlow	65
6. Housing as a barrier to the geographical mobility of labour Ray Forrest and Alan Murie	77
Part III: Migration and Employment
7. Changing labour processes and internal migration Anne Green	105
8. Modelling approaches to migration and the labour market Ian Gordon	119
9. Labour market operation and geographical mobility Robin Flowerdew	135
10. The relationship between international and internal labour migration John Salt and Robert Kitching	148

Part IV: Migration and Social Change

11. The household dimension in migration research 165
Emily Grundy
12. Migration and the life course 175
Tony Warnes
13. The internal migration of Britain's ethnic population 188
Vaughan Robinson
14. Migration and culture 201
Tony Fielding

Part V: The Study of Migration

15. Migration in Britain: research challenges and prospects 215
Tony Champion
- Bibliography* 227
- Index* 251

List of figures

2.1	Movements across Family Practitioner Committee Area boundaries in the UK, 1975/6–1988/9	19
2.2	Gross in- and out-migration for Wales, 1975/6–1988/9	20
5.1	Housing land transactions and land-price inflation, 1969–87, for the South East excluding London	69
5.2	Annual rates of price inflation for housing land and new dwellings, 1970–87, for the South East excluding London	70
8.1	Decision tree for potential migrants	124
12.1	Standardised age-specific migration rates by five-year age groups	179

List of tables

2.1	Distance moved by house purchasers, 1981, by reason for move	21
2.2	Reasons for move by house purchasers, 1981, by distance of move	21
2.3	Total net migration within the urban hierarchy of England and Wales, 1980-81	24
2.4	Total net migration between levels of the urban hierarchy in the North and South of England and Wales, 1980-81	24
2.5	Mobility rates by gender, 1986-87	25
2.6	Mobility rates by age group, 1986-87	26
2.7	Stage in family life cycle of house purchasers, 1981	27
2.8	Main reason for moves among house purchasers, 1981	27
2.9	Mobility rates by broad household type, 1986-87	28
2.10	Mobility rates by ethnic group, 1986-87	29
2.11	Mobility rates by occupational category, 1986-87	30
2.12	Mobility rates by highest qualification, 1986-87	32
2.13	Inter-regional migration and economic status, 1986-87	33
2.14	Mobility rates by housing tenure, 1986-87	34
3.1	The changing tenure structure: Great Britain, 1961-90	44
3.2	Right-to-buy sales: England and Wales, 1980-90	47
3.3	Mortgage arrears and repossessions: Great Britain, 1979-90	49
6.1	Availability of benefits on offer to relocating executives in the UK	95
10.1	Trends in stocks of foreign nationals in the UK labour force, 1984-89	150
10.2	Role of corporate transferees in UK labour immigration, 1985-89	152
10.3	Occupations of foreign nationals employed at a London hotel, 1989	159
12.1	Stages in the life cycle related to housing needs	177
12.2	Life-course transitions associated with household changes and migration	184
12.3	Effects of migrations associated with life-course transitions on origin and destination households and on multiple residences	185