

Table of Contents

Preface	vi
Section 1: Ethics
The Ethics of Computing?	4
Herbert Burkert, Federal Republic of Germany
Section 2: Roots, Legitimacy and Ideology
Introduction	22
Editors
Some Historical Remarks	24
Phillippe Breton, France
The Question of the Legitimacy of the Computer: An Epistemological Point of View	31
Romain Laufer, France
Computerization Movements and the Mobilization of Support for Computing	62
Rob Kling and Suzanne Iacono, U.S.A.

Section 3: Towards New Cultural Perspectives?

Introduction Editors	86
The Cultural Scenery of Information Technology: An Introduction Felix van Rijn, The Netherlands	90
Information Technology in Daily Life: An Assessment of the Full Integration Hypothesis Nicholas P. Vitalari, U.S.A.	96
Towards a New Balance in Our Landscapes Paula Goossens, The Netherlands	113
Society, Religions and Information Technology David J. Pullinger, United Kingdom	124
Style as Substance in Educational Computing Sherry Turkle, U.S.A.	145
Communication of Knowledge in an Information Society Herbert I. Schiller, U.S.A., and Bernard Miège, France	161

Section 4: Politics

Introduction Editors	170
The Political Implications of Information Technology: Challenge To Power? William Dutton, U.S.A.	173
Information Technology and Civil Liberties James Michael, United Kingdom, Yves Poulet, Belgium, and Wilhelm Steinmüller, Federal Republic of Germany	196
Computers and Democracy Vincent Mosco, Canada	215
Seeking Security Through Technological Means Colin Beardon, United Kingdom	232

Section 5: Economics

Introduction Editors	256
Information in the Economy Frank-Michael Bahr, Federal Republic of Germany	259
Information Technology, and the Global Economy Christopher Freeman, United Kingdom, and Luc Soete, Belgium-The Netherlands	278
Growth, Productivity and Innovation: Theories and Facts Riccardo Petrella, European Economic Community	295
Computers and Organizations Andrew Clement, Canada	305
Human Resources and the Working World Ulrich Briefs, Federal Republic of Germany	327
Comments on "Human Resources and the Working World" Yasuo Kuwahara, Japan	337
Women Employment and Information Technology: A View from the United Kingdom Diane Whitehouse, United Kingdom	340
Women Employment and Information Technology: A View from the Netherlands Margaret J. Weggelaar, The Netherlands	356
Computers and Developing Countries Sergio Vasquez, Chile and Jean-Benoît Zimmermann, France (transl. by Bart De Greef, The Netherlands)	364

Section 6: Artificial Intelligence, Human Mind and Image of Reality

Introduction Editors	382
--------------------------------	-----

Recent Technical Developments: Attitudes and Paradigms Jacques Berleur, Belgium and Klaus Brunnstein, Federal Republic of Germany	384
Model, Representation and Reality Jean Ladrière, Belgium	424
The Distortion of Information Peter Nilsson, Sweden	449
Information and Human Mind Klaus Fuchs-Kittowski, German Democratic Republic	460
Epilogue	467
Appendices	473
Contributors Addresses	487
Author Index	493
Subject Index	507