

Contents

Introduction Rolland Munro	1
Part 1: Imagining Mass
Introduction to Part 1	13
Interpreting mass: collection/dispersion Robert Cooper	16
Pass the salt: how language moves matter Dan Rose	44
The mystery of the Assumption: mothers and measures Heather Höpfl	60
Sound, technics, energy: (consumption) Rob Beeston	73
Part 2: Mass and Community
Introduction to Part 2	99
On mass, individuals, and peg communities Zygmunt Bauman	102
The waiting of mass: endless displacement and the death of community Rolland Munro	114
Consuming averages: interpreting luck and the social mass Jane Parish	129
Virtual masses and real minorities: imagining the nation across space and time: the case of Rhodesians on the world wide web Doug Stuart	142
Part 3: Mass and Persons
Introduction to Part 3	155
All-consuming passions: materials and subjectivity in the age of enhancement Joanna Latimer	158
Becoming mass: glamour, authority and human presence Nick Lee	174
Ordering others and othering orders: the consumption and disposal of otherness Cristina Palli Monguilod	189

Border blues: between Maastricht and Dada disorder Robert Grafton Small	205
Notes on contributors	229
Index	231