

Features to Enhance Learning

Chapter-Opening Vignettes

Levi Strauss & Co. Begins to Focus on the Consumer	3
Autobytel.com Helps Empower the Car Purchaser	29
The Rebirth of Brand Loyalty: Coke Is It, and So Is McDonald's, Tide, and Intel	57
Can Procter & Gamble Increase the Level of Product Involvement through the Web?	89
Timex Positions Its Watches by How People Use Them	121
Pepsi Tries to Change Consumer Perceptions	147
Nike Facilitates Online Information Search	183
Benetton Attempts to Change Consumer Attitudes	215
BMW Targets Emerging Demographic Groups	245
ConAgra's Healthy Choice Encounters Conflicting Lifestyles	279
McDonald's: A Strategy to Reflect Cultural Values	311
Metropolitan Life Recognizes the Value of Diversity	343
Nestlé Stays Local and Levi Strauss Goes Global	377
Reebok's Pyramid of Group Influence	399
Marketers from Cars to Computers Recognize Children's Purchase Influence	433
Viral Marketing: Stimulating Word of Mouth and Diffusion on the Web	465
McDonald's Emotional Themes Appeal to Consumer Needs	501
Volvo Reinvents Itself through a Strategy of Market Segmentation	535
The Body Shop: A Company That Supports Social Causes and Consumer Rights	563

Global Applications of Consumer Behavior

Procter & Gamble Fails to Export Its Consumer Savvy to Japan	9
What Is Low Involvement at Home May Be High Involvement Abroad	99
Social Class in China	270
Why Do U.S. Consumers Want Their Cheese to Be Dead?	299
In Japan the Xers, Not the Boomers, Are the Movers and Shakers	354
The Global Teenager: A Result of Mainstreaming	384
Micromarketing in Russia? Maybe on a Limited Basis	550
Environmentalism Has a Long Way to Go in Eastern Europe	572

Web Applications of Consumer Behavior

Bertelsmann Appeals to Individual Consumers through Online Book Sales	18
Has the Internet Lessened Brand Loyalty?	62
Cognitive Learning on the Internet	69
Gift Giving on the Web	125
Gap Leverages Its Brand Equity on the Web	158
The Demographics of Web Usage	257
The Sacred and Secular Dimension of Consumption on the Web	330
When It Comes to the Internet, Japanese Consumers March to a Different Drummer	388
Identifying and Targeting Web Communities	410
Socializing Children on the Internet—Meet the Net Generation	449
Negative Word of Mouth Can Get Nasty When Consumers Set Up Web Sites to Complain	472
Should Low-Involvement Products Be Sold on the Web?	556
Are Search Engines on the Web Engaging in Deceptive Advertising?	586

Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior

Mercedes-Benz Appeals to Hedonic and Utilitarian Motives with Its A-Class Cars	37
From Heavy Metal to Cologne: Harley Davidson Changes Its Symbols	48
The Marlboro Cowboy: Still Riding Tall in the Saddle?	65
Kellogg Increases Involvement with Cereals	95
Crest Whitestrips—From the Dentist's Office to Home Use	137
J. D. Power Expands Its Auto Categories to Conform to Consumer Perceptions	168
Advertising Repetition Can Work for or against You	201
Kmart Tries to Change Its Image from "The Polyester Palace"	230
Changing Attitudes Toward a Social Issue	238
Can Anheuser-Busch Build Bridges to Women?	289
The Effects of September 11 on Consumer Values: A Shift to Traditionalism	336
California: On the Cutting Edge of Catering to Ethnic Identity	368
When Should Advertisers Use Celebrities as Experts or Referents?	426
Kraft's Jell-O Takes Another Look at the Mother-Child Interaction	454
Corona Succeeds Based on Word of Mouth	470
Can Computers Be Sold Based on Hedonic Appeals?	513
Airline Advertising After September 11: Message Effects Become More Emotionally Focused	519

Brief Contents

PART ONE

Introduction to Consumer Behavior 1

CHAPTER 1

Consumer Behavior:
A Managerial Perspective 2

PART TWO

Consumer Decision Making 27

CHAPTER 2

Complex Decision Making: Purchase and Consumption 28

CHAPTER 3

Consumer Learning,
Habit, and Brand Loyalty 56

CHAPTER 4

Low-Involvement Consumer
Decision Making 88

CHAPTER 5

Situational Influences in Decision Making 120

The Individual Consumer 145

CHAPTER 6

Consumer Perceptions 146

CHAPTER 7

Consumer Information Acquisition and Processing 182

CHAPTER 8

Attitude Development and Change 214

CHAPTER 9

Demographics and Social Class 244

CHAPTER 10
Lifestyle and Personality 278

PART FOUR

Group and Cultural Influences 309

CHAPTER 11
Cultural Values 310

CHAPTER 12
Subcultural Influences and Age Cohorts 342

CHAPTER 13
Cross-Cultural and Global Influences 376

CHAPTER 14
Reference-Group Influences 398

CHAPTER 15
Household Decision Making 432

CHAPTER 16
Group Communications: Word-of-Mouth and Diffusion Processes 464

PART FIVE

Marketing Action 499

CHAPTER 17
The Marketing Communications Process 500

CHAPTER 18
Market Segmentation and Micromarketing 534

CHAPTER 19
Consumer Rights and Social Responsibility 562

Contents

Preface xviii

PART ONE

Introduction to Consumer Behavior 1

CHAPTER 1 Consumer Behavior: A Managerial Perspective 2

Opening Vignette: Levi Strauss & Co. Begins to Focus on the Consumer 3

Consumer Behavior and Marketing Action 5

Developing a Consumer-Oriented View of Marketing Strategy: The Marketing Concept 6

Implications for Consumer Behavior 7

Current Trends in Consumer Behavior 10

A Greater Value Orientation 10

Greater Interest in and Access to Information via the Web 11

Fragmentation of the Marketplace 11

Increasing Time Poverty 11

A Desire for More Customized Products 11

Consumer Empowerment through the Web 13

Promotion 13

Product 14

Place 14

Price 15

The Information Base for Understanding
Consumer Behavior 15

Secondary Data 15

Census Data 15

Syndicated Services 15

Database Marketing 16

Primary Data 16

Qualitative Research 17

Survey Research 17

Experimental Research 18

Observational Research 19

Approaches to Studying Consumer Behavior:
A Managerial versus a Holistic Approach 19

A Managerial Approach 20

A Holistic Approach	20
A Balanced View	21
A Model of Consumer Behavior	21
Organization of This Text	23
Summary	24
Questions for Discussion	24
Research Assignments	25
Global Applications of Consumer Behavior: Procter & Gamble Fails to Export Its Consumer Savvy to Japan	9
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Bertelsmann Appeals to Individual Consumers through Online Book Sales	18

PART TWO

Consumer Decision Making 27

CHAPTER 2 Complex Decision Making: Purchase and Consumption 28

Opening Vignette: Autobytel.com Helps Empower the Car Purchaser 29

The Nature of Complex Decision Making	30
Conditions for Complex Decision Making	30
A Model of Complex Decision Making	31

Need Arousal 31

Input Variables	32
Consumers' Past Experiences	32
Consumer Characteristics	32
Consumer Motives	33
Environmental Influences	33
Past Marketing Stimuli	33
Need Recognition	33
A Hierarchy of Needs	34
Utilitarian versus Hedonic Needs	35
The Consumer's Psychological Set	36
Benefits Sought	36
Brand Attitudes	36

Consumer Information Search and Processing	38
Stimulus Exposure	38

Perception of Stimuli	39
Memory	39
Search for Additional Information	39
Involvement and Information Processing	40
The Limits of Information Search	41
Brand Evaluation	41
Benefit Association	41
Expected Satisfaction	42
Purchase and Postpurchase Evaluation	43
Intention to Buy	43
No Purchase	43
Purchase	44
Postpurchase Evaluation	44
Purchasing versus Consuming	45
Satisfaction versus Dissatisfaction	45
Postpurchase Dissonance	45
The Consumption Experience: Hedonic Consumption and Product Symbolism	46
Product versus Service Consumption	47
Hedonic Consumption	47
Complex Decision Making and Store Choice	50
A Model of Store Choice	50
Store Choice and Brand Choice	51
Hedonic versus Utilitarian Shopping Behavior	51
Summary	52
Questions for Discussion	53
Research Assignments	54
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Mercedes-Benz Appeals to Hedonic and Utilitarian Motives with Its A-Class Cars	37
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: From Heavy Metal to Cologne: Harley Davidson Changes Its Symbols	48

CHAPTER 3 Consumer Learning, Habit, and Brand Loyalty 56

Opening Vignette: The Rebirth of Brand Loyalty: Coke Is It, and So Is McDonald's, Tide, and Intel 57

Consumer Learning 58

Classical Conditioning	59
Associative Learning: Beyond Pavlov's Dogs	61
Strategic Applications of Classical Conditioning	63
Instrumental Conditioning	63
Reinforcement	64
Extinction and Forgetting	64
Applications of Instrumental Conditioning to Marketing	67
Cognitive Learning	68
Cognitive Learning Theory	68

Vicarious Learning	68
Marketing Applications of Cognitive Learning	70
Relevance of the Cognitive versus Behaviorist Perspective	70
Habit	71
A Model of Habitual Purchasing Behavior	71
Functions of Habit	72
Habit versus Complex Decision Making	73
Strategic Implications of Habit versus Complex Decision Making	74
Distribution	75
Product	75
Advertising and In-Store Promotions	75
Pricing	75
Inducing a Switch from Habit to Decision Making	76
Brand Loyalty	76
Behavioral Approach to Brand Loyalty	77
Cognitive Approach to Brand Loyalty	77
The Brand-Loyal Consumer	78
Brand Loyalty and Product Involvement	78
Consumer Loyalty, Consumer Equity, and Micromarketing	79
Store Loyalty	80
Store-Loyal Consumers	80
Level of Store Loyalty	81
Web Site Loyalty	81
Societal Implications of Brand and Store Loyalty	82
Implications for Brand Loyalty	82
Implications for Store Loyalty	83
Summary	84
Questions for Discussion	84
Research Assignments	85
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: "Has the Internet Lessened Brand Loyalty?"	62
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: The Marlboro Cowboy: Still Riding Tall in the Saddle?	65
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Cognitive Learning on the Internet	69

CHAPTER 4 Low-Involvement Consumer Decision Making 88

Opening Vignette: Can Procter & Gamble Increase the Level of Product Involvement through the Web?	89
The Nature of Involvement	90
Types of Involvement	91

The Multidimensional Nature of Involvement	92
Involvement with the Medium	94
The Cross-Cultural Nature of Involvement	95
The Importance of a Low-Involvement Perspective	96
Involvement and the Hierarchy of Effects	96
Low-Involvement Hierarchy	97
Low Involvement and Brand Evaluation	98
Low-Involvement Decision Criteria	99
Four Types of Consumer Behavior	100
Complex Decision Making and Brand Loyalty	100
Inertia	101
Limited Decision Making	102
Unplanned Purchasing Behavior	103
Three Theories of Low-Involvement Consumer Behavior	103
Krugman's Theory of Passive Learning	104
Consumer Behavior Implications of Passive Learning	104
Sherif's Theory of Social Judgment	106
Elaboration Likelihood Model	107
Strategic Implications of Low-Involvement Decision Making	108
Marketing Strategy	108
Advertising	108
Product Positioning	109
Price	110
In-Store Stimuli	110
Distribution	110
Product Trial	110
Strategic Issues	110
Shifting Consumers from Low to High Involvement	111
Shifting Consumers from Inertia to Variety Seeking	113
Segmenting Markets by Degree of Consumer Involvement	113
Societal Implications of Low-Involvement Decision Making	114
Summary	115
Questions for Discussion	116
Research Assignments	117
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Kellogg Increases Involvement with Cereals	95
Global Applications of Consumer Behavior: What Is Low Involvement at Home May Be High Involvement Abroad	99

CHAPTER 5 Situational Influences in Decision Making 120

Opening Vignette: Timex Positions Its Watches by How People Use Them 121

The Nature of Situational Influences 122

Types of Situations 122

 Purchase Situation 122

 In-Store Situations 122

 Gift-Giving Situations 123

 Unanticipated Purchase Situations 125

 Consumption Situation 126

 Communication Situation 126

Characteristics of Consumption and Purchase Situations 127

 The Experiential Nature of Situational Influences 128

 Characteristics of the Purchase and Consumption Experience on the Web 129

A Model of Situational Influences 129

 Consumer Attributions to Situation versus Product 131

 Proximity of Situation to Behavior 132

Situational Influences on Product Attitudes, Choice, and Decision Making 133

 Influence on Product Attitudes 133

 Influence on Product Choice 134

 Influence on Decision Making 134

Use of Situational Variables in Marketing Strategy 135

 Introducing New Usage Situations 135

 Targeting Existing Usage Situations 136

 Market Segmentation 136

 New Product Development 136

 Product Positioning 136

 Advertising 138

 Distribution 139

 Web Site Development 139

Summary 140

Questions for Discussion 140

Research Assignments 141

Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Gift Giving on the Web 125

Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Crest Whitestrips—From the Dentist's Office to Home Use 137

PART THREE

The Individual Consumer 145

CHAPTER 6 Consumer Perceptions 146

Opening Vignette: Pepsi Tries to Change Consumer Perceptions 147

Marketing Stimuli and Consumer Perceptions 148

Stimulus Characteristics Affecting Perception 149

Sensory Elements 149

Sight: Color Perceptions 149

Taste 150

Smell 150

Sound 151

Feel 151

Structural Elements 151

Consumer Characteristics Affecting Perception 152

Stimulus Discrimination 152

Threshold Level 153

Adaptation Level 156

Stimulus Generalization 156

Strategic Applications of Generalization 157

Brand Leveraging 157

Perceptual Selection 158

Exposure 159

Attention 159

Selective Perception 160

Functions of Selective Perception 160

Perceptual Equilibrium 161

Perceptual Disequilibrium 161

Selective Perception and Marketing Strategy 162

Using Perceptual Defense 162

Using Perceptual Vigilance 162

Selective Perception and the Internet 162

Perceptual Organization 163

Closure 163

Grouping 164

Context 165

Perceptual Interpretation 166

Perceptual Categorization 166

Category Levels 167

The Process of Categorization 167

Marketing Implications of Categorization 169

Perceptual Inference 169

Perceptual Inference and Product Symbols 169

Marketing Implications of Perceptual Inference 170

Brand Image 170

Store Image 171

Corporate Image	172
Perceived Risk	172
Factors Associated with Perceived Risk	172
Types of Risk	173
Consumer Strategies to Reduce Risk	174
Marketer Strategies to Reduce Risk	174
Price Perceptions	175
Price Expectations	175
Price-Quality Relationship	176
Summary	176
Questions for Discussion	177
Research Assignments	178
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Gap Leverages Its Brand Equity on the Web	158
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: J. D. Power Expands Its Auto Categories to Conform to Consumer Perceptions	168

CHAPTER 7 Consumer Information Acquisition and Processing 182

Opening Vignette: Nike Facilitates Online Information Search	183
Consumer Information Acquisition	184
Determinants of Information Search	187
Sources of Information	188
Amount of Information Search	189
Limits of Information Acquisition	190
Information Acquisition for Utilitarian versus Hedonic Products	191
Strategic Implications of Information Acquisition	192
Type of Information Search: Passive versus Active	193
Type of Product: Hedonic versus Utilitarian	193
Cost of Information Acquisition	194
Consumer Information Processing	195
An Information-Processing Model	195
Involvement and Information Processing	197
Memory Processes	198
Filtering Information through Short-Term Memory	198
Storing Information in Long-Term Memory	198
Retrieving Information for Purposes of Brand Evaluation	200
Brand Evaluation	202
Evaluative versus Nonevaluative Processing	202
Category-Based versus Attribute-Specific Processing	203
Compensatory versus Noncompensatory Processing	204

Information Processing for Utilitarian versus Hedonic Products 206
 Information Retrieval 206
 Brand Evaluation 206

Strategic Implications of Information Processing 206
 Memory Processes 207
 Brand Evaluation 207

Societal Implications of Information Processing 207
 More or Less Information? 208
 Compensatory or Noncompensatory Processing? 208
 Age-Related Information Processing 209

Summary 210
Questions for Discussion 210
Research Assignments 211

Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: J. D. Power Expands Its Auto Categories to Conform to Consumer Perceptions 168

Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Advertising Repetition Can Work for or against You 201

CHAPTER 8 Attitude Development and Change 214

Opening Vignette: Benetton Attempts to Change Consumer Attitudes 215

The Nature of Consumer Attitudes 216
 Three Components of Attitudes 216
 Beliefs: The Cognitive Component 216
 Overall Brand Evaluation: The Affective Component 217
 Intention to Buy: The Behavioral Component 217
 Attitudes and the Hierarchy of Effects 218
 High- versus Low-Involvement Hierarchy 218
 The Experiential Hierarchy 219
 Attitude Development 219
 Family Influences 220
 Peer-Group Influences 220
 Information and Experience 220
 Personality 220
 Functions of Attitudes 220
 Utilitarian Function 220
 Value-Expressive Function 221
 Ego-Defensive Function 222
 Knowledge Function 222

The Role of Attitudes in Developing Marketing Strategy 222
 Identify Benefit Segments 222
 Develop New Products 223

Formulate and Evaluate Promotional Strategies	223
Relationships of Beliefs, Attitudes, and Behavior	224
The Relationship of Beliefs and Attitudes	224
Heider's Balance Theory	224
Fishbein's Multiattribute Model	225
Fishbein's Theory of Reasoned Action	226
The Relationship of Intention to Buy and Behavior	226
The Relationship of Behavior to Attitudes	227
Cognitive Dissonance	227
Passive Learning	228
Disconfirmation of Expectations	228
Factors Inhibiting the Relationships of Beliefs, Attitudes, and Behavior	228
Attitude Reinforcement and Change	229
Conditions for Attitude Reinforcement and Change	229
Attitude Change Before a Purchase	232
Fishbein's Multiattribute Models and Attitude Change	232
Katz's Functional Theory and Attitude Change	234
Heider's Balance Theory and Attitude Change	235
Attitude Change After a Purchase	235
Dissonance Theory	235
Attribution Theory	236
Passive Learning	236
Strategies for Changing Attitudes	236
Changing Attitudes of Existing Users	237
Changing Attitudes of Nonusers	237
Changing Attitudes Toward Social Issues	237
Summary	239
Questions for Discussion	239
Research Assignments	241
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Kmart Tries to Change Its Image from "The Polyester Palace"	230
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Changing Attitudes Toward a Social Issue	238

CHAPTER 9 Demographics and Social Class 244

Opening Vignette: BMW Targets Emerging Demographic Groups 245

The Demographic Fragmentation of the American Market 246

Demographic Trends in the American Marketplace	247
Population Growth	248
Birthrate	248
Life Expectancy	249
Immigration	250
Changing Age Composition	250
Changing Household Composition	251
Regional Differences	253
Geodemographic Analysis	253
Global Geodemographic Analysis	253
Socioeconomic Trends	254
Occupational Status: Increase in the Proportion of Working Women	254
Income	256
Education	258
Demographic Trends Worldwide	258
Population	259
Changing Age Composition	260
Changing Household Composition	261
Socioeconomic Factors	261
Percentage of Working Women	261
Income	262
Using Demographics to Develop Marketing Strategy	262
Identifying Market Segments	262
Database Marketing	263
Social Class Influences	264
The Nature of Social Class	264
Social Stratification	264
Status Symbols	265
Social Mobility	265
Social Class Categories in the United States	266
Warner's Index of Status Characteristics	266
Coleman-Rainwater Social Standing Hierarchy	266
Is the United States Becoming a Classless Society?	270
Applications of Social Class to Marketing Strategy	271
Advertising	271
Market Segmentation	272
Distribution	272
Product Development	273
Summary	274
Questions for Discussion	274
Research Assignments	275
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: The Demographics of Web Usage	257
Global Applications of Consumer Behavior: Social Class in China	270

CHAPTER 10 Lifestyle and Personality 278

Opening Vignette: *ConAgra's Healthy Choice Encounters
Conflicting Lifestyles* 279

The Nature of Lifestyles 280

Measuring Lifestyle Characteristics 280

AIO Inventories 280

Consumer Surveys 282

Value and Lifestyle Survey (VALS) 282

Forrester's Technographic Segments 284

Changing Lifestyle Trends of American and Global Consumers 285

Changes in Male Purchasing Roles 285

Changes in Female Purchasing Roles 286

A Global Perspective on Male/Female Roles 287

Evolving Attitudes Toward Health and Nutrition
290

The Health- and Fitness-Conscious American
Consumer 290

A More Self-Indulgent Lifestyle 291

A More Home-Oriented Lifestyle 291

Greater Time Pressures 292

Growing Consumer Self-Awareness 293

A More Frugal and Value-Oriented Lifestyle 294

The Role of the Internet in Affecting Lifestyles 294

Personality 295

Psychoanalytic Theory 295

Motivational Research 296

Criticisms of Motivational Research 298

Social-Cultural Theories 298

Self-Concept Theory 300

Actual Self 300

Ideal Self 301

Consumption and the Extended Self 301

Trait Theory 302

Limitations of Personality Variables 303

Summary 304

Questions for Discussion 304

Research Assignments 305

Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: *Can
Anheuser-Busch Build Bridges to Women?* 289

Global Applications of Consumer Behavior: *Why Do U.S.
Consumers Want Their Cheese to Be Dead?* 299

PART FOUR

Group and Cultural Influences 309

CHAPTER 11 Cultural Values 310

Opening Vignette: McDonald's: A Strategy to Reflect Cultural Values 311

Culture Influences and Reflects Consumer Behavior 312

Culture Influences and Reflects Marketing Strategies 313

Cross-Cultural and Subcultural Influences 313

A Definition of Cultural Values 314

Characteristics of Cultural Values 316

Traditional American Values 318

Materialism 318

Individualism 318

Youthfulness 318

Work Ethic 318

Other Core Values 319

Cross-Cultural Values 319

Materialism 319

Individualism 320

Youthfulness 320

Work Ethic 320

Identifying Cultural Values 321

Ethnographic Studies 321

Cultural Inventories 321

Research Services 322

Content Analysis 322

Linking Cultural Values to Consumer Behavior:

The Means–Ends Chain 323

Underlying Theories 323

Laddering 324

The Cultural Meaning of Products 324

Role of Product Symbolism 325

Semiotics 327

Products as Myths and Fantasies 327

Culture and Consumption 328

Consumption Rituals 328

Sacred and Secular Consumption 330

Changes in Cultural Values in the United States and Abroad 331

New Reality 332

Youthfulness Rather than Youth 333

Greater Traditionalism 333

New Materialism 334

The Globalization of American Consumption Values 335

Societal Implications of Cultural Values	337
Summary	338
Questions for Discussion	338
Research Assignments	339
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: The Sacred and Secular Dimension of Consumption on the Web	330
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: The Effects of September 11 on Consumer Values: A Shift to Traditionalism	336

CHAPTER 12 Subcultural Influences and Age Cohorts 342

Opening Vignette: Metropolitan Life Recognizes the Value of Diversity	343
The Influence of Subculture on Consumer Behavior	344
The United States: Melting Pot or Salad Bowl?	344
The Key Strategic Issue: Should Marketers Appeal to Subcultures?	344
Types of Subcultures	345
Geographic Subcultures	345
Religion	346
Nontraditional Subcultures: The Gay Community	346
Age Cohorts	347
The Mature Market (Over 55 Years Old)	348
Baby Boomers (Born between 1946 and 1964)	350
Older Baby Boomers	350
Younger Baby Boomers	351
Generation X (Born between 1965 and 1976)	352
Generation Y (Born Between 1977 and 1994)	354
Older Generation Ys	354
Younger Generation Ys	356
Ethnic Subcultures	357
The African-American Subculture	358
Demographic Characteristics	358
Purchasing Patterns	359
Web Usage	359
Marketing to African-American Consumers	360
Advertising	360
Media	360
Product Positioning	361
Product Development	362
The Hispanic-American Subculture	362
Demographic Characteristics	362
Purchasing Patterns	363
Web Usage	363
Marketing to Hispanic-American Consumers	363
Advertising	364
Media	364

Product Development	365
Distribution	366
The Asian-American Subculture	366
Demographic Characteristics	366
Web Usage	367
Marketing to Asian-American Consumers	367
Subcultures of Consumption	369
The Harley Subculture: An Example	369
Targeting Subcultures of Consumption	370
Societal Implications of Subcultural Influences	371
Summary	372
Questions for Discussion	372
Research Assignments	373
Global Applications of Consumer Behavior: In Japan the Xers, Not the Boomers, Are the Movers and Shakers	354
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: California: On the Cutting Edge of Catering to Ethnic Identity	368

CHAPTER 13 Cross-Cultural and Global Influences 376

Opening Vignette: Nestlé Stays Local and Levi Strauss Goes Global 377

The International Dimensions of Consumer Behavior 378

Cultural Variations Influencing Consumer Behavior 379

 Consumer Customs and Values 380

 Product Preferences 381

 Language 381

 Symbols 382

 Economic Environment 382

Global Influences on Consumer Behavior 383

 Worldwide Communications 383

 The Role of the Internet in Global Communications 383

 Mainstreaming 386

 Universal Demographic Trends 386

 Decrease in Trade Barriers 386

 Americanization of Consumption Values 387

Strategic Applications of Cross-Cultural and Global Influences 389

 Localized Strategies 390

 The Limits of Localized Strategies 390

 Global Strategies 392

 Limits of Global Influences 393

 Flexible Globalization 394

Societal Implications of Cross-Cultural Influences	394
Summary	395
Questions for Discussion	395
Research Assignments	396
Global Applications of Consumer Behavior: The Global Teenager: A Result of Mainstreaming	384
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: When It Comes to the Internet, Japanese Consumers March to a Different Drummer	388

CHAPTER 14 Reference-Group Influences 398

Opening Vignette: Reebok's Pyramid of Group Influence	399
When Do Reference Groups Exert Influence?	400
Attitude Toward the Group	400
The Nature of the Group	401
The Nature of the Product	401
Types of Reference Groups	401
Membership Groups	402
Primary Informal Groups	403
Primary Formal Groups	403
Secondary Informal Groups	404
Secondary Formal Groups	405
Aspiration Groups	405
The Nature of Reference Groups	406
Norms	406
Values	406
Roles	407
Status	407
Socialization	407
Power	408
Expert Power	408
Referent Power	408
Reward Power	408
The Nature of Web Communities	408
Types of Communities on the Web	409
Characteristics of Web Communities	411
Norms	411
Values	411
Roles	411
Status	411
Socialization	412
Power	412
Reference-Group Influences on Consumers	413
Informational Influence	413
The Nature of Informational Influence	414
Informational Influence on the Web	415

Comparative Influence	415
The Nature of Comparative Influence	415
Comparative Influence on the Web	416
Normative Influence	416
Conformity in Consumer Behavior	416
The Nature of Normative Influence	417
Conditions for Conformity	417
Conformity on the Web	418
The Social Multiplier Effect	418
Rejection of Conformity	419
Information, Comparison, or Conformity	420
Type of Influence by Product	420
Influence by Product Category versus Brand	421
What Is the Most Important Component of Group Influence?	421
Group Influence versus Product Evaluation	421
Strategic Applications of Reference-Group Influences	422
Portraying Informational Influence	422
Portraying Comparative Influence	422
Portraying Normative Influence	425
Societal Implications of Reference-Group Influences	425
Discouraging Conformity	425
Marketers' Portrayal of Peer-Group Influence	427
Summary	428
Questions for Discussion	429
Research Assignments	429
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Identifying and Targeting Web Communities	410
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: When Should Advertisers Use Celebrities as Experts or Referents?	426

CHAPTER 15 Household Decision Making 432

Opening Vignette: Marketers from Cars to Computers Recognize Children's Purchase Influence	433
Households in the United States	434
Traditional Households	434
Nontraditional Households	435
International Households	436
Purchasing Patterns by Household Life Cycles	437
The Family Life Cycle	437
The Household Life Cycle	437
The Nature of Purchases	439
Life Cycles Globally	439
The Nature of the Household Decision Process	440

A Model of Household Decision Making	440
Joint Decision Making	442
Role Specifications	443
Conflict Resolution	443
Husband–Wife Influences	444
The Type of Product	444
The Nature of the Purchase Influence	445
Family Characteristics	446
Changing Patterns of Husband–Wife Influence	446
Parent–Child Influences	447
Consumer Socialization of Children	448
Methods of Socialization	448
Stages in Consumer Socialization	450
The Role of Parents in Consumer Socialization	450
Intergenerational Influences	451
Children’s Influence in the Purchasing Process	452
Parent–Child Interaction	452
Parent versus Peer-Group Influence among Adolescents	454
Household Decision Making and Marketing Strategies	455
Children’s Socialization	456
Traditional Households	456
Husband–Wife Influences	456
Parent–Child Influences	457
Nontraditional Households	458
Societal Implications of Household Influence	458
Increased Parent–Child Conflict	458
Undesirable Consumer Socialization	459
Alternative Solutions	459
Summary	460
Questions for Discussion	460
Research Assignments	461
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Socializing Children on the Internet—Meet the Net Generation	449
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Kraft’s Jell-O Takes Another Look at the Mother–Child Interaction	454

CHAPTER 16 Group Communications: Word-of-Mouth and Diffusion Processes 464

Opening Vignette: Viral Marketing: Stimulating Word of Mouth and Diffusion on the Web	465
Word-of-Mouth Communication within Groups	466
The Nature of Word of Mouth	466

Types of Word-of-Mouth Communication	466
The Process of Word-of-Mouth Communication	467
Negative Word-of-Mouth Communication	468
Conditions for Word-of-Mouth Communication	469
Word of Mouth on the Web	471
The Multiplier Effect of the Web	471
Viral Marketing	471
Negative Word of Mouth on the Web	472
Opinion Leadership	472
The Nature of Opinion Leadership	472
Characteristics of the Opinion Leader	474
Opinion Leaders Online: The E-fluentials	474
Strategic Applications of Word-of-Mouth Communication	475
Stimulating Word of Mouth through Product Trial	475
Stimulating Word of Mouth through Advertising and Promotion	475
Simulating Word-of-Mouth Communication	476
Portraying Communications from Opinion Leaders	476
The Diffusion Process	477
Diffusion Research and Marketing Strategy	478
Steps in the Diffusion Process	479
The Adoption Decision	479
Time	481
Communication in the Diffusion Process	484
The Diffusion of Internet Usage	486
Characteristics Encouraging Diffusion of the Internet	486
The Diffusion of Products and Ideas on the Internet	487
The Cultural Context of Diffusion	487
Innovativeness and the Diffusion Process	488
The Nature of Innovativeness	488
Are There Positive and Negative Innovators?	490
Strategic Applications of Diffusion Theory	491
Adoption	491
Rate of Diffusion	492
Summary	494
Questions for Discussion	495
Research Assignments	496
Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: Corona Succeeds Based on Word of Mouth	470
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Negative Word of Mouth Can Get Nasty When Consumers Set Up Web Sites to Complain	472

PART FIVE

Marketing Action 499CHAPTER 17 The Marketing Communications Process 500*Opening Vignette: McDonald's Emotional Themes Appeal to Consumer Needs 501*A Model of Marketing Communications 502

Barriers to Communications 504

Barriers at the Source 505

Barriers in Encoding 506

Barriers in Transmission 506

Barriers in Decoding 507

Results of Communications 507

Source Effects in Marketing Communications 508

Source Credibility 508

Credibility and Message Acceptance 509

Increasing the Credibility of the Source 510

Source Attractiveness 510

Source versus Message Effects 511

Effects of the Message 512

Hedonic versus Utilitarian Appeals 512

One-Sided versus Two-Sided Appeals 514

Refuting Negative Information 514

Defusing Objections to the Product 514

Comparative Advertising 515

Fear Appeals 516

Humor in Advertising 517

Media Effects 519

Differences within Media 519

Differences between Media 520

Consumer Decoding of Marketing Communications 521

Source Identification and Evaluation 521

Source Identification 521

Source Evaluation 521

Message Evaluation 522

Cognitive Response 522

Affective Response: Attitude toward the Ad 522

Effects of Positive Attitudes 523

Effects of Negative Attitudes 523

Consumer Mood States 524

Media Evaluation 524

Communications Feedback 525Societal Implications of Marketing Communications 527

Deceptive Advertising 527

Irresponsible Advertising 527

Summary 529

- Questions for Discussion 530
- Research Assignments 531
- Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: *Can Computers Be Sold Based on Hedonic Appeals? 513
- Strategic Applications of Consumer Behavior: *Airline Advertising After September 11: Message Effects Become More Emotionally Focused 519

CHAPTER 18 Market Segmentation and Micromarketing 534

- Opening Vignette: *Volvo Reinvents Itself through a Strategy of Market Segmentation 535
- Mass Marketing, Market Segmentation, and Micromarketing 536
- Mass Marketing 537
- Market Segmentation 537
- Strategic Results of a Targeted Approach 538
 - Product 538
 - Promotion 538
 - Place 538
 - Price 539
 - Approaches to Market Segmentation 539
 - Benefit Segmentation 540
 - Behavioral Segmentation 541
 - Segmenting by Response Elasticity 542
 - Limits to Market Segmentation 544
- Micromarketing 546
- Consumer Empowerment 547
 - How the Internet Empowers Consumers 547
 - Limits to Consumer Empowerment 547
 - Developing Web Site Loyalty 548
 - Requirements for Effective Micromarketing 549
 - Information at the Individual Level 549
 - Interactivity 549
 - Mass Customization 550
 - Corporate Culture 551
 - Strategic Applications 551
 - Product 551
 - Place 551
 - Promotion and Advertising 552
 - Price 552
 - Relationship Marketing 553
 - Micromarketing and Low-Involvement Products 554
 - Why Today's Consumers Are More Receptive to Micromarketing 555
- Positioning Products to Consumer Targets 555
- Positioning Products to Target Segments 556
 - Positioning Products to Individual Consumers 558
 - Rules-Based Systems (Customization) 558
 - Collaborative Filtering (Personalization) 558

Summary	558
Questions for Discussion	559
Research Assignments	559
Global Applications of Consumer Behavior:
Micromarketing in Russia? Maybe on a Limited Basis	550
Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Should Low-Involvement Products Be Sold on the Web?	556

CHAPTER 19 Consumer Rights and Social Responsibility 562

Opening Vignette: The Body Shop: A Company That Supports Social Causes and Consumer Rights	563
The Consumer Movement	564
The Role of Consumer Activists and Organizations	564
Consumer Activists	565
Consumer Organizations	565
Consumer Boycotts	565
The Role of Government	566
Legislation	566
Regulation	566
The Role of Business Organizations	567
The History of the Consumer Movement in the United States	568
Four Periods of Consumerism	568
First Period of Consumerism	568
Second Period of Consumerism	568
Third Period of Consumerism	569
Decline of Consumerism in the 1980s	569
Fourth Period of Consumerism: Rebirth in the 1990s and 2000s	569
History of the Consumer Movement Abroad	570
Before 1990	570
After 1990	571
Consumer Rights in the United States	572
The New Environmentalism	572
Reaction of Consumer Activists and Agencies	572
Government Controls	574
Reaction of Business	575
Health Claims	576
Government Controls	576
Reaction of Business	577
Advertising to Children	577
Reaction of Consumer Activists and Organizations	577
Government Controls	578
Reaction of Business	578
The Right to Privacy	579

Consumer Rights Abroad 580

The New Environmentalism 581

Health Claims 581

Advertising to Children 582

Right to Privacy 582

Additional Consumer Rights 583

The Right to Safety 583

The Right to Be Informed 584

Deceptive Advertising 584

Control of Other Deceptive Marketing
Practices 585

Provision of Adequate Information 587

The Right to Be Heard 587

Consumer Complaint Behavior 587

Role of the Internet 588

The Right to Be a Minority Consumer
without Disadvantage 589

Social Responsibility 590

Self-Regulation 590

Social Marketing 591

Summary 592

Questions for Discussion 593

Research Assignments 593

Global Applications of Consumer Behavior:

Environmentalism Has a Long Way to Go in Eastern Europe 572

Web Applications of Consumer Behavior: Are Search

Engines on the Web Engaging in Deceptive Advertising? 586

Glossary 597

Name Index 611

Subject Index 619