Contents

List of Tables
Acknowledgements

1 Introduction
1.1 Some Background on Life Story Research .......................... 13
1.2 Making Sociological Use Out of Personal Narratives .............. 15
1.3 Examining Two Types of Account of Lone Motherhood .......... 17

2 Lone Motherhood as a Social Phenomenon in Finland 21
2.1 Introduction ..................................................................... 21
2.2 Women's Positions in Society ........................................... 23
2.3 Families and Sexuality ..................................................... 24
2.4 Lone Motherhood ............................................................ 26
2.5 Welfare State and Legislation .......................................... 29
2.6 Contextualising Lone Motherhood: A Different Phenomenon in Different Societies ......................................................... 32

3 Individual Family Pathways and Narrative Identity: Focus on Lay Definitions and the Creation of Meaning 40
3.1 Introduction ..................................................................... 40
3.2 Family Sociology: From Roles to Diversity to Deconstructing 'Families' ................................................................. 41
  3.2.1 Conceptualising 'Families' ............................................ 42
  3.2.2 What is a 'Lone Mother'? .............................................. 46
3.3 Knowledge Production ...................................................... 49
3.4 Representations of Lone Motherhood ................................. 52
3.4.1 From the Welfare State Client to the Welfare Dependent Lone Mother .................. 55
3.4.2 The Stigmatised and the Marginalised Lone Mother 59
3.4.3 Growing Up in a Lone-Mother Family: Alleviating or Measuring Harm .................... 61
3.4.4 Varying Representations of Lone Motherhood ................. 62
3.5 Narrative Identity: A Window Into Lone Motherhood ............. 64
  3.5.1 Studying Lay Narratives ................................................. 65
  3.5.2 Lone Motherhood as a Social Category ....................... 67
  3.5.3 Lone Motherhood in the Context of Narrative Identity ............... 68

4 Creating and Interpreting Meaning in Life Stories ....... 72
  4.1 Introduction ................................................................. 72
  4.2 Narrative and Life Story .................................................... 73
  4.3 The Relationship Between Experience and the Telling of It 76
  4.4 Narrative Analysis in Sociology ......................................... 81
  4.5 Interpretive Model: Focus on Form and Content .......... 84
    4.5.1 Form ................................................................. 84
    4.5.2 Content: View of Self in Relation to Others ............. 86
  4.6 Material ................................................................. 88
    4.6.1 Women’s Lives in Swedish-Speaking Finland .......... 88
    4.6.2 The Seventeen Life Stories Telling of Lone Motherhood 89
  4.7 Dimensions of Power .................................................... 93
  4.8 Concluding Remarks: The Analytical Process .......... 97

5 The Coping Lone Mother ....................... 100
  5.1 Types of Narrative ...................................................... 100
  5.2 Narratives of Hardship ................................................... 105
    5.2.1 Sofia ............................................................... 106
    5.2.2 Maria .............................................................. 113
    5.2.3 Elisabet ............................................................ 121
    5.2.4 Iris ............................................................... 127
    5.2.5 Gunilla ............................................................ 133
  5.3 Focus on Material Hardships: Reflecting Both Generation and Class ............... 138
6 Lone Motherhood: A Difficult Period of Time in an Optimistic Narrative
6.1 Optimistic Narratives ........................................... 142
6.1.1 Sylvia ......................................................... 143
6.1.2 Karolin ....................................................... 155
6.2 Difficult Lone Motherhood Offset by Tone of Narrative .... 160

7 The Isolated, Overburdened, and Stigmatised Lone Mother
7.1 Me-Against-the-World Narratives ................................ 163
7.1.1 Edit ......................................................... 165
7.1.2 Emma ....................................................... 174
7.1.3 Anna ......................................................... 182
7.1.4 Astrid ....................................................... 186
7.1.5 Cecilia ....................................................... 192
7.1.6 Katarina ..................................................... 205
7.2 The Outer World Creating Misery in the Lone Mother's Life ........................................................................... 211

8 The Lone Mother Who Grew Strong .................................. 214
8.1 Narratives of Gaining Independence ................................ 214
8.1.1 Ellen ......................................................... 215
8.1.2 Ulla ............................................................ 223
8.1.3 Barbro ....................................................... 233
8.1.4 Susanna ...................................................... 241
8.2 Narratives of Gaining Independence as Accounts of Shifting Identity ........................................................................ 247
8.3 Class and Education ...................................................... 251

9 A Narrative Life Course Approach: Theoretical Consequences for Family Sociology and the Study of Lone Motherhood
9.1 Introduction ......................................................... 254
9.2 Thin Narratives – Impossible to Analyse? ......................... 255
9.2.1 Individual Family Pathways Through Lone Motherhood in the Context of Narrative Identity ............................................. 257
9.3 Narrative Mode and Lone Motherhood: The Effect of Narrative Context on Meaning ................................................. 258
9.4 Men's Violence Against Women and Temporality ....... 263
9.4.1 Men's Violence ......................................... 264
9.4.2 Generational Narrative Differences ................. 265
9.5 Theoretical Implications ................................. 274
9.5.1 Lone Mothers or Simply Mothers? The Connection Between Being Single and Being a Mother . . . . 274
9.5.2 Temporality and Individual Meaning ................. 277
9.5.3 The Sociological and the Experience-Based Perspective on Lone Motherhood .......................... 279
List of Tables

2.1 The number of lone-mother families, their proportion of all families with children, the population, and the proportion of lone-mother families to the whole population in 1950, 1970, 1990, and 1998. ........................................ 27

4.1 The protagonists according to age, period when became lone mother and route into lone motherhood. .......... 91
4.2 The civil statuses of the protagonists. ......................... 92
4.3 The protagonists by class background, education, and occupation. .................................................. 93