

Contents

Matthias Knuth and Thorsten Kalina

Contents	1
Introduction.....	2
1 Statistical and institutional background.....	4
1.1 Unemployment and age in official statistics	4
1.2 Unemployment and early retirement in social security regulations	5
2 Data modelling for the purpose of analysing early retirement.....	8
2.1 The IAB employment subsample as a database for event history analysis.....	8
2.2 Transitions from employment to unemployment.....	10
2.3 Modelling employment episodes	11
2.4 Modelling unemployment episodes	12
2.5 Modelling displacement-related unemployment episodes	13
2.6 Modelling unemployment related to early retirement as a part of displacement-related unemployment.....	14
3 The impact of unemployment related to early retirement	16
3.1 Ages of entry into and of exit from unemployment.....	16
3.2 The distribution of unemployment types.....	17
3.3 Early retirement as long-term unemployment	18
4 Bivariate descriptions of early retirement.....	20
4.1 Unemployment/employment ratios for different types of unemployment	20
4.2 Displacement/employment ratio by age	20
4.3 Displacement/employment ratio by establishment size	21
4.4 Early retirement/employment ratios by sub-sectors.....	23
5 Early retirement/employment ratios by personal characteristics	26
5.1 Does skill matter?.....	26
5.2 Early retirement/employment ratios by gender and age.....	27
5.3 Early retirement/employment ratios by nationality.....	28
6 Measuring the relative impact of different factors by logistic regression	30
6.1 Influence of variable categories	30
6.2 Influence of variables	32
7 Summary and discussion	34
Appendix	39