Contents

Introduction
1. "Wir müssen mehr wissen": Institutional and Ideological Foundations of a Jewish Statistics 1
2. The Bureau for Jewish Statistics and the Development of Jewish Social Science 1904–1931 28
3. The Wages of Modernity: Fertility, Intermarriage, and the Debate over Jewish Decline 56
4. The Pathological Circle: Medical Images and Statistics in Jewish Social Science 74
5. The Diaspora as Cure: Non-Zionist Uses of Social Science 96
7. National Economy and the Debate over Jewish Regeneration 169
   Conclusion: A Usable Knowledge 194
Notes 217
Bibliography 245
Index 299