

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Preface	xi
1. Conflicts of memory in a media age	1
An introduction to memory and media	1
New memory	5
An ethics of viewing	9
2. From Vietnam to the Gulf – re-visions of war	13
Memory beyond the living room	13
The journalistic context of Vietnam	16
Photographic memory – Vietnam	18
Photographic memory – Gulf War	21
Videographic amnesia – Gulf War	23
Living memories versus media memories	28
Media templates – Vietnam to the Gulf	34
Media templates – 1991 to 2003	39
3. Reality TV – war in real-time	45
No-time news	45
1991 – New times and places	49
2003 – ‘New propaganda’ – visions of speed and proximity	57
American visions	64
Critical discourses	69
Overexposure	75

4. Bodies fallen in time – the bloody resonance of battle	77
Anonymous corpse – the Jarecke image	79
Covering the body	84
The seen unseen	88
Remembering Amiriya	93
Showing or saving bodies? The ethics of intervention	95
Fading images?	99
5. The real Saddam?	106
Monster or misjudged?	106
‘Guest’s news’	110
The old Saddam	113
From ‘Hitler’ to ‘Inspector Clouseau’	119
Searching for Saddam	122
6. The collapse of memory	126
Shared visions	126
Eyewitness in the line of fire	129
The collapse of memory	132
Notes	136
References	139
Index	145