

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
List of tables	x
Acknowledgements	xi
Note on the text	xiii
1 Introduction: the process of research	1
2 The argument: identifying a dominant discourse	9
The reification of culture	9
The discourse of 'community' on the basis of ethnicity	14
The dominant discourse in Britain	20
Presentation of the data	31
3 A shared Southall culture?	37
'Town': a cultivated space	37
Ethnic distinctions, economic commonalities	47
Some local history: migration and the 'white backlash', community building and 'the Southall Riots'	54
Local politics as community competition	59
4 The dominant discourse applied: 'self-evident' communities of culture	72
On Sikhs: the 'majority community '	73
On Hindus: cultural cachet	78
On Muslims: marginalized as a community	81
On Afro-Caribbeans: community across island cultures	80
On Whites: Irish without community , English without culture ?	92
On youth: culture consciousness among children	98

5 The dominant discourse denied: community as creation, culture as process	109
Sikhs and the creation of caste communities	109
Hindus and the culture of encompassment	116
Muslims and the multi-cultural community of Islam	122
Afro-Caribbeans and four approaches to 'finding' culture	126
Whites and three strategies in the absence of community	134
6 Culture and community as terms of cultural contestation	145
On youth: assessing and discovering an Asian culture	146
Questioning Asian culture : socialist and feminist networks	157
Contesting political community : 'Are Asians Black?'	161
Questioning religious community : interfaith networks	173
Contesting religious community : convergence, encompassment, and 'multi-cultural' equality	178
Conclusion	188
Summary of the argument	188
The community patterning of the demotic discourse	190
The local persistence of the dominant discourse	192
The relationship between dominant and demotic discourse	195
The question of rights	198
List of references	205
Index	212

List of illustrations

Figures

- | | | |
|---|---------------------------------------------------|---------|
| 1 | Map of Southall: electoral and census wards, 1989 | page 39 |
| 2 | Southallians' models for school assemblies | 182 |

Plates

Between pages 50 and 51

All photographs by Peter Seglow, Department of Human Sciences, Brunel, The University of West London

- 1 Punjabi dancers and London police
- 2 Telephone engineer at work
- 3 Conversation at the bus stop
- 4 Muslim refugee outside an 'off-licence' liquor store
- 5 Policeman, undertaker, and temple official leading a funeral cortege
- 6 Stopping for a chat on the Broadway: men
- 7 Stopping for a chat on the Broadway: women
- 8 Sikh ladies passing a public house
- 9 'Danceasia presents': Ghazal, Bhangra and Rap for Valentine's Day
- 10 Children at a middle school

Tables

1	Major ethnic categories among Southallians	page 48
2	Census ward and social class based on occupation	50
3a	Ethnic category and social class based on occupation
3b	Ethnic category and male unemployment rate	51
4	Ethnic category and employment rates of economically active women	52
5	Criteria used to distinguish cultures by 312 Southall youths	99
6	Religious composition of survey respondents and of pupils at a local secondary school	100
7	Tripartite terms used to delineate cultures by 311 Southall youths	100
8	Statements about relative isolation endorsed by 179 Southall youths	146
9	Sources of learning about the best-known 'other' religion endorsed by 264 South Asian Southall youths	147
10	Social divisions thought important among adults and among youths endorsed by 185 Southall youths	148
11	Statements about arranged marriages endorsed by 172 South Asian Southall youths	151