

Contents

	Chapter 1
	Constituting childhood	1
	The child as 'savage'	4
	The 'natural' child	6
	The 'social' child	8
	Socialization theory – the Parsonian paradigm	13
	Developmental psychology – the Piagetian paradigm	22
	Chapter 2
	The conceptual limitations on a sociological approach to childhood	32
	Structural causality	33
	The concept of development – time, nature and progress	36
	The child in critical social theory	43
	Childhood as constraint	46
	Conclusion	51
	Chapter 3
	The birth of childhood	56
	The emergence of childhood	59

Centuries of childhood	62
Childhood and social control	68
The Dionysian child	70
The Apollonian child	73
Conclusion	78
Chapter 4
The abuse of childhood	84
An increase in child abuse?	85
The mythology of child abuse	86
Contemporary explanations of child abuse	89
The evolution of the child and child abuse	90
The politicization of child abuse	94
The child in modernity – ‘futurity’	97
The child in post-modernity – ‘nostalgia’	101
Conclusion	110
Chapter 5
The strange death of childhood	116
Traditional conceptions of childhood?	121
The moral ground?	123
What is ‘the child’?	127
What does the child need?	131
What can be done?	133
Postscript
Index	140
	141