What Is Planning Anyway? 5

Why Plan (According to Planners)? 15

Jelinek’s Case for Planning 21

And What Is Strategy? 23

Planners, Plans, and Planning 29

A Plan for This Book 32

2 • Models of the Strategic Planning Process 35

The Basic Planning Model 36

The Core “Design School” Model 36

Premises of the Design School 37

Premises of the Planning Literature 39

The Initial Ansoff Model 43

The Mainline Steiner Model 46

Decomposing the Basic Model 49

The Objectives-Setting Stage 52

The External Audit Stage 54

The Internal Audit Stage 56

The Strategy Evaluation Stage 56

The Strategy Operationalization Stage 60

Scheduling the Whole Process 62

A Missing Detail 66

Sorting Out the Four Hierarchies: Objectives, Budgets, Strategies, Programs 67

Hierarchy of Objectives 71

Hierarchy of Budgets 72

Hierarchy of Strategies 74

Hierarchy of Programs 75

- The "Great Divide" of Planning 78
- Forms of Strategic Planning 81
 - A. Conventional Strategic Planning 82
 - B. "Strategic Planning" as a Numbers Game 83
 - C. Capital Budgeting as Ad Hoc Control 87
- 3 • Evidence on Planning 91
 - Survey Evidence on "Does Planning Pay?" 92
 - Anecdotal Evidence 97
 - The General Electric FIFO Experience 101
 - Some Deeper Evidence 104
 - Sarrazin's Study of Exemplary Planning 105
 - Gomer's Study of Planning Under Crisis 107
 - Quinn's Findings on Planning Under "Logical Incrementalism" 108
 - The McGill Research on "Tracking Strategies" 109
 - Koch's Study of the "Facade" of French Government Planning 115
 - Some Evidence on the PPBS Experience 116
 - Some Evidence on Capital Budgeting 122
 - Concluding the Deeper Evidence 133
 - Planners' Responses to the Evidence 135
 - Faith: "There is no problem" 136
 - Salvation: "It's the process that counts" 138
 - Elaboration: "Just you wait" 139
 - Reversion: "Back to basics" 151
 - Pitfalls: "Them not us" 152
- 4 • Some Real Pitfalls of Planning 159
 - Planning and Commitment 160
 - Commitment at the Top 161
 - Commitment Lower Down 163
 - "Decentralized" Planning 164
 - Planning and Freedom 167
 - Commitment Versus Calculation 170
 - Planning and Change 172
 - The Inflexibility of Plans 173
 - The Inflexibility of Planning 175
 - Planned Change as Incremental 176
 - Planned Change as Generic 180
