

Contents

Foreword	vii
Preface to the second edition	ix
Preface to the first edition	xi
Introduction	xiii
1 Know the game	1
The process of writing	1
The scientific article as truth	3
The truth about scientific articles	5
Marketing – a comforting but vulgar approach	8
Implications for the reader of this book	9
2 Know yourself	11
Do you really want to write?	11
Goals – and can you achieve them?	13
Making time	13
Setting objectives	15
3 First set yourself a brief	17
When to stop researching and start writing	17
Only one message per article	19
Choosing the market	21
The length	26
Deadlines	26
Co-authors	27

4 Expand the brief	31
Gather your strength	31
Look at the market requirements	32
Think	42
5 Make a plan, or four	47
Understanding structure	47
Making a plan (or rather four)	50
6 Write the first draft	53
Conquer the fear of writing . . .	53
Get ready to write	54
Go with the flow	55
Write each section in turn	57
Overcoming writer's block	57
7 Rewrite your draft	59
Now comes the pain . . .	59
Macroediting	60
Microediting	66
8 Prepare the additional elements	77
The title page	77
The abstract	83
References	85
Tables	87
Letter to the editor	87
9 Use internal reviewers	93
'Hit me again . . . and again . . .'	93
Voluntary reviewing	95
Compulsory reviewing	96

10 Send off the package	99
At last . . .	99
. . . into the black hole	99
Coping with rejection	101
Coping with acceptance	103
After publication	104
References	105
Index	107