

CONTENTS

List of Tables	ix
List of Charts	xi
Preface	xiii
Introduction	xv
Chapter I. DO LOW PROFITS STIMULATE PRODUCTIVITY GROWTH?	3
1. Introduction	3
2. Basic Empirical Findings	9
3. How Robust Are the Basic Results?	24
4. Cyclical and Noncyclical Components of Profits	33
5. Past Research: The Literature on "Satisficing"	41
6. Time Allocation Model	44
7. Liquidity Constraint Model	49
8. Bankruptcy Choice Model	60
9. Industry Case Study: Motor Vehicles	65
10. Summary and Conclusion	68
Appendix A: Derivation of Equation 1.4	70
Appendix B: Effect of Higher Profits on Time Allocated to Cost-Cutting	72
Appendix C: Effect of Profits on Manager Retention	73
Appendix D: Effect of Profits on Effort	74
Chapter II. DEFERRED MARGINAL COST: AN EXPLANATION FOR HIGH ESTIMATED MARKUPS	81
1. Introduction	81
2. Evidence For Deferred Marginal Cost	85
3. The Marginal Benefit of Capital	94
4. Evidence For Varying Levels of Effort	106
5. Offsetting Variations in Effort	111
6. Immediate Compensation For Effort	120
7. Conclusion	125
Appendix A: Workers' Utility Under a Varying-Effort Contract	127
Appendix B: Labor Hours Under a Varying-Effort Contract	130

Chapter III. SIMULTANEITY IN FREELY ESTIMATED
PRODUCTION FUNCTIONS 139

1. Introduction 139
2. Theory 143
3. Empirical Results 149
4. Conclusion 155

Bibliography 163

Index 169

TABLES

- 1.1 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand 17
- 1.2 Effect of Profits and Time Dummies on Labor Demand 18
- 1.3 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Using Instrumental Variables 20
- 1.4 Effect of Profits and Real Compensation on Labor Demand 21
- 1.5 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand: Annual Data 22
- 1.6 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, by Industry 23
- 1.7 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Controlling for Ratios of Actual to Potential GNP 25
- 1.8 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Controlling for the Ratio of Actual to Potential GNP: Annual Data 26
- 1.9 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Controlling for Gordon's End-of-Expansion Effect 28
- 1.10 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Controlling for Gordon's End-of-Expansion Effect, With Dickens' Modification 30
- 1.11 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Controlling for the Efficiency Wage Theory 31
- 1.12 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand, Controlling for the Efficiency Wage Theory: Annual Data 33
- 1.13 Effect of Cyclical and Noncyclical Components of Profits on Labor Demand 35
- 1.14 Effect of Cyclical and Noncyclical Components of Profits on Labor Demand, by Industry 36
- 1.15 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand: OECD Data 38
- 1.16 Effect of Cyclical and Noncyclical Components of Profits on Labor Demand: OECD Data 40
- 1.17 Test of the Liquidity Constraint Version of the Bankruptcy Hypothesis, by Industry 58
- 1.18 Test of the Liquidity Constraint Version of the Bankruptcy Hypothesis, by Industry, Using Hours of Full-Time and Part-Time Workers 59
- 1.19 Test of Bankruptcy by Choice Hypothesis, Using Stock Prices as a Measure of Present Discounted Value 64

- 1.20 Effect of Profits on Labor Demand: Big Three Automakers 66
- 1.21 Effect of Cyclical and Noncyclical Components of Profits on Labor Demand: Big Three Automakers 67
- 2.1 Estimated Markups, Accounting for Deferred Marginal Cost 90
- 2.2a Estimated Markups, Using Different Frequencies of Estimation 93
- 2.2b Sums of Lagged Output Coefficients, Using Different Frequencies of Estimation 94
- 2.3 Average Marginal Benefit of Capital, From Joint Estimation of Equations (2.23) and (2.24) 101
- 2.4 Marginal Benefit of Capital in Manufacturing, Calculated Using Alternative Estimated Markups 103
- 2.5 Gordon's End-of-Expansion Regressions, With Effort Debt Proxy 119
- 3.1 Production Function Coefficients of Capital and Labor, Estimated Without Relative Factor Price Effects 151
- 3.2 Production Function Coefficients of Capital and Labor, Estimated With Relative Factor Price Effects 153
- 3.3 Production Function Coefficients of Capital and Labor, Estimated With Relative Factor Price Effects and Assuming Constant Tax Treatment 154

CHARTS

- 1.1 Labor Productivity Growth and Investment in Producers' Durable Equipment 4
- 1.2 Profits and Productivity Growth in Nonfinancial Corporations (Excluding Petroleum Refining) 7
- 1.3 Equilibrium Allocation of Time Between Cost-Cutting and Sales-Increasing Activities 47
- 1.4 Probability of Bankruptcy, Given Profits and Effort 55
- 1.5 Equilibrium Effort in the Bankruptcy Model 55
- 2.1 Response of Manhours to an Increase in Output 83
- 3.1 Actual and Fitted Values of Multifactor Productivity, With No AR Correction 156
- 3.2 Actual and Fitted Values of Multifactor Productivity, With AR2 Correction 157
- 3.3 Actual and Fitted Values of Multifactor Productivity, With No AR Correction, Assuming Constant Tax Treatment 158
- 3.4 Actual and Fitted Values of Multifactor Productivity, With AR2 Correction, Assuming Constant Tax Treatment 159