

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1. Introduction	1
Aims and purpose	1
The difficult relationship and its consequences	2
Why is it difficult to deal with difficult people?	5
Why are people difficult?	6
Consciousness and competence	8
2. Defining the Problem Behaviour	10
Behaviour – rational or irrational	14
Options	16
Diagnosis and outcomes	16
3. Levers of Change	27
Defining the ‘forces’	29
Discovering the ‘forces’	31
Using the levers of change worksheet and the force field analysis instrument	32
4. Tools and Techniques for Change	37
On being genuine	37
5. The Communication Tool	40
Defensiveness – beware	41
Assumptions	41
Stereotyping	42
How to listen	43
‘Hidden messages’	44
Johari’s window	45

Contents

6. The Rapport-building Tool	49
Paraphrasing	50
Mirroring	52
7. The Feedback Tool	54
Performance and defensiveness	55
8. The Confrontation Tool	59
9. The Temperament Tool	65
10. The Motivation Tool	71
Expectancy theory	71
Self-efficacy	75
Reinforcement theory	83
The context shift tool	86
11. The Negotiation Tool	89
The phases of the negotiation tool	92
12. The Role Analysis Tool	94
Role expectations	94
Using the role analysis tool	103
13. The Values Tool	104
14. The Power Tool	110
The Power worksheets	112
15. The Stress Management Tool	123
Stages of stress	123
Analysing Glenda Jones' problems	125
16. Difficult People and Their Grievances	128
The six-step process for handling a 'grievance'	131
17. Discipline and Dismissal – The Final Blow	131
The context of discipline	131
The formal disciplinary framework	132
Stages of discipline	132
Serious offences	134

The disciplinary interview	134
After the interview	136
A final note	137
18. Conclusion	138
Further Reading	140
Index	143