

CONTENTS

Introduction	vii
Corrigenda et Addenda	xvii
HISTORICAL QUESTIONS AND METHODOLOGIES
I Women's Medical Practice and Health Care in Medieval Europe	39–78
Sisters and Workers in the Middle Ages , ed. J. Bennett et al. Chicago, 1989
II Documenting Medieval Women's Medical Practice	322–352
Practical Medicine from Salerno to the Black Death , ed. Luis García-Ballester et al. Cambridge, UK, 1994
IDENTIFYING THE TEXTS
III The De genecia Attributed to Constantine the African	299–323
Speculum 62. Cambridge, MA, 1987
IV Obstetrical and Gynecological Texts in Middle English	53–88
Studies in the Age of Chaucer 14. New Brunswick, 1992
V The Development of the Trotula	119–203
Revue d'Histoire des Textes 26. Paris, 1996
EXPLORING THE CONTEXTS
VI 'Traittié tout de mençonges': The Secrés des dames , 'Trotula,' and Attitudes Towards Women's Medicine in Fourteenth- and Early Fifteenth-Century France	146–178 (1–4)
Christine de Pizan and the Categories of Difference , ed. Marilyn Desmond. Minneapolis, 1998

- VII The Possibilities of Literacy and the Limits of Reading:
Women and the Gendering of Medical Literacy 1-76
First publication

APPENDIX

- Medieval Gynecological Literature: A Handlist 1-36
First publication

INDICES

- Index of Manuscripts Cited 1-8
General Index 9-24

This volume contains xx + 388 pages