

Contents

Foreword	v
Introduction	ix
Part One. Theory, Measurement, and Conceptual Issues
1. Understanding Gainsharing	3
Brian Graham-Moore and Timothy L. Ross
Introduction	3
Descriptive Model	4
Traditional Gainsharing and Organizational Fit	7
Organizational Variables: The Degree of Fit	9
Predictive Gainsharing	12
Conclusion	16
2. Review of the Literature	19
Brian Graham-Moore
What Is Gainsharing?	20
Requirements of Gainsharing Formulas	20
Conditions Necessary for a Scanlon Plan	21
Scanlon Calculation—Simple	23
Scanlon Calculations—Complex	25
Rucker Plan	26
Improshare	28
Base Productivity Factor	29
Simplicity of Improshare Formula	29
Acceptance of Improshare	31
Gainsharing Involvement Processes	33
Evaluation Studies	34
What Do We Know?	36
Organizational Size	36
Other Variables	37
Union and Nonunion Organizations	38

Motivation and Learning Theory	38
Participative Management	39
Common Sources of Gainsharing Failures	39
Gainsharing as a Way of Life	41
OD Structure and Process	41
Analog to Involvement System	43
Summary and Conclusion	43
3. Formulas for Developing a Reward Structure to Further Organizational Goals	48
Brian Graham-Moore
The Decision-Making Approach	49
Goal Specification	50
Goals	50
Process	50
Clarification	51
Organizational Factors	51
Strength of Reinforcement	52
Scope of the Formula	52
Motivating Harder Work	53
Motivating Smarter Work	53
Motivating Nonlabor Savings	53
Ease of Administration	53
Economic Flexibility	54
Generic Formulas	54
Impact of Single Ratio Scanlon Formula	55
Impact of the Split Ratio Formula	59
Impact of the Multicost Split Ratio Formula	62
Impact of the Allowed Labor or Improshare Formula	65
Impact of the Value-Added/Rucker Formula	70
Assessing the Fit Between Gainsharing and Organizational Fairness	74
Scenario Generation	75
Comparison of Formulas	75
Summary	78
4. Solving Some of the Measurement Issues	81
Timothy L. Ross and Ruth Ann Ross
Conceptual Criteria for Selecting an Approach	82
Physical Versus Financial Performance	82

Control Versus Reward Orientation	83
Other Conceptual Criteria	84
Basic Calculations and Issues	84
A Calculation Example	85
Summary of Basic Calculations	87
Refining the Calculations	89
Limited or Poor Past Performance (Base Ratio Movement Considerations)	89
How to Consider Volume	90
Caps and Leverage Effects of Labor Costs	91
Bonus Size and Bad Times	92
Inventories and Accounting of the Bonus	92
Mix Changes and Capital	93
New Products	94
Individual Incentives and Gainsharing	95
Loose or Tight Standards	95
Percent to Employees and Percent Versus Flat Amount	96
Quality Considerations	97
Targeted Performance Instead of Past Performance	97
Tradeoff of Resources	98
Reserves and Frequency of Payment	98
Unique Industries	99
Conclusion	99
5. Why Gainsharing Sometimes Fails	100
Timothy L. Ross
Overall Review	100
Some Evidence From the Literature	102
Three Other Studies	104
Study 1. Accounts and Supervisors Contrasted	104
Study 2. A Case of Failure	107
Study 3. Contrasting Two Firms	110
Summary	114
6. Making Productivity Programs Last	116
Paul S. Goodman and James W. Dean, Jr.
Significance	117
Institutionalization	118
A Definition	118

Degrees of Institutionalization	119
Summary	120
Factors That Affect Institutionalization	121
Empirical Findings	122
Five Processes	122
Training	122
Commitment	123
Reward Allocation	124
Diffusion	125
Feedback and Correction	126
Structure of the Change	126
Goals	126
Formal Mechanisms	127
Level of Intervention	127
Consultants	127
Sponsorship	128
Organizational Characteristics	128
Congruence With Organizational Values and Structure	129
Stability of the Environment	130
Union	130
How Do You Make Productivity Programs Last?	131
Conclusion	133

Part Two. Cases and Applications

7. Seventeen Years of Experience With the Scanlon Plan: DeSoto Revisited	139
Brian Graham-Moore
Key Aspects of DeSoto's Plan	140
Presence of Three Basic Elements	140
DeSoto's Philosophy	141
DeSoto's Involvement Plan	141
DeSoto's Formula	141
Productivity Outcomes at DeSoto	142
Involvement System as Structure and Process	146
Results of Suggestion-Making Process	151
Challenge to Management	158
Four Key Roles	159
Use of Task Forces	160

Intangible Benefits of the Plan at DeSoto	161
Observations of Management Personnel	161
Social-Psychological Outcomes of the Plan	162
Consequences for Employees	162
Chronological Evaluation	163
Employee Satisfaction	164
Cooperation, Participation, and Teamwork	164
Long-term Results	166
Factors Influencing Success	168
Clear Understanding	168
Supportive Personnel	169
Trust	169
Conclusions	170
Recommendations of Management	171
8. Gainsharing and the Government Sector	174
James E. Jarrett
Introduction	174
Early Group Incentive Experiences	175
Review of Twelve Programs	175
Detroit	176
Flint	176
State of Washington Printing Plant	177
Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles ...	177
Summary of Early Experience	178
One Important Model: State of North Carolina	178
Successors	180
Unanswered Questions	180
State of Washington	181
Other Examples	183
State of Texas	183
City of Loveland, Colorado	183
Federal Projects	185
Similarity to Other Programs	185
Tracey, California	185
Pearl Harbor	186
Charleston, South Carolina	186
McClellan Air Force Base	187
Cherry Point	187
Some General Observations	189
More Barriers for Governments	189

Conclusion	191
Appendix: Washington State Productivity Board	194
9. Gainsharing and Unions: Current Trends	200
Timothy L. Ross and Ruth Ann Ross
General Union Positions	201
The Survey	202
Why Unions Would Oppose	202
Why Unions May Support Gainsharing	205
What's in It for Unions?	207
How to Get Cooperation	208
Job Security	209
Involvement of Participants	209
Keeping Plan Out of Union Contract	210
Sharing of Information	210
Winning Union's Support	210
Conclusions	212
10. Using Gainsharing for a Union Survival Strategy	214
Timothy L. Ross and Ruth Ann Ross
Background Information	214
Options Considered by TFI	215
A Key Problem—The Incentive System	218
The Incentive Systems—What Happened?	219
United Steelworkers' Role in Beginning the Gainsharing Installation	220
How Gainsharing Was Started—The Steps Involved ..	220
An Outline of the Plan Itself	221
Post-Implementation Activities	224
A Review of the Quantitative Results	227
Quality Improvements	227
Suggestion Activity	228
Other Benefits	228
Bonus Results	229
Continuing Union and Management Support	229
Summary and Conclusions	230
11. Gainsharing Apprehensions: A Case Study and Survey	231
Timothy L. Ross and Ruth Ann Ross
A Short Case Example	231
Results at Ross Manufacturing	233

A Survey of Managers in Gainsharing Firms	234
Managers' Adjustment to Participative Management	235
Managers' Evaluations of Subordinates	237
Satisfaction With the Gainsharing Plan	238
The Case of Ross Manufacturing	239
Declining Profitability	240
Turning It Around	240
Results for the Company	242
Conclusion	242
12. Some Education Recommendations for Successful Employee Involvement	244
Timothy L. Ross and Ruth Ann Ross
Stages of Education	244
Stage 1	244
Stage 2	245
Stage 3	245
Stage 4	245
Stage 5	245
Pre-Implementation Education	245
Stage 6	249
Education for Plan Start-Up	249
Stage 7	249
Stage 8	250
Problem Sensing and Problem Solving	250
Stage 9	251
Conclusions	251
13. Gainsharing Application in the Service Sector	253
Timothy L. Ross
Service Sector Classifications	253
Measurement for Gainsharing in Service Sector—A
General Review	254
Measurement	255
Alternative Calculations	256
Improshare or Allowed Labor	257
Single Ratio	257
Split-Ratio Expansions	259
Multicost Ratio	259
Value-Added Ratio	260
Other Measures	260

A Specific Application in Branch Banks	261
The Problem	261
Gainsharing as a Solution	262
Application—Actual and Potential	262
14. Attitude Change Versus Performance
Improvement: One Look at the Long-Term
Results	266
Timothy L. Ross, Larry L. Hatcher, and Ruth Ann Ross
Ashley March: A Case Study	267
Background	267
Details of a Gainsharing Plan	268
Research Questions	268
Development of the Attitude Scales	269
Results	269
Responses to Research Questions	271
Question 1: Satisfaction	271
Question 2: Cooperation	272
Question 3: Opportunity for Participation	272
Question 4: Productivity	272
Discussion	272
Satisfaction	272
Cooperation	273
Opportunity for Participation	273
Productivity	274
Conclusion	275
15. Gainsharing and the Future	278
Brian Graham-Moore and Timothy L. Ross
Impediments to Gainsharing	278
The Future and Gainsharing	281
Optimal Conditions for Gainsharing	286
Glossary of Gainsharing Terms	289
Index	293
About the Authors	305