

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments . . . . .	ix
Contributors . . . . .	xi

Introduction: Germany and the European Community: The Issues and the Stakes

Carl F. Lankowski . . . . .	1
------------------------------------	---

PART I: SECTORS

1. German Business and the 1992 Project Michael G. Huelshoff . . . . .	23
2. West German Labor and Europe '92 Andrei S. Markovits and Alexander Otto . . . . .	45

PART II: GERMAN HEGEMONY?

3. Germany and European Integration: Toward Economic and Political Dominance? Simon J. Bulmer . . . . .	73
4. United Europe and Social Democracy: The EC, West Germany, and Its Three Small Neighbors Paulette Kurzer and Christopher S. Allen . . . . .	101

PART III: NETWORKS

5. The European Left and Political Integration: A New Stage in Social Democracy? Robert Ladrech . . . . .	127
--	-----

6. Transnational Market Integration and the Green Project in Germany
Carl F. Lankowski . . . . .	145

PART IV: EXTERNAL RELATIONS

7. A Unified Germany, a Single European Economic Space, and the Prospects for the Atlantic Economy
James Sperling . . . . .	179

Conclusion: Beyond the Cold War: Toward the Fourth Republic?
Carl F. Lankowski . . . . .	217

Index . . . . .	233
------------------------	-----