

Preface	xiii
Acknowledgements	xv
PART I
INTRODUCTION	1
1 Reading retail: purpose and organization of the book	3
Developing a sense of the debate: reading and re-reading retail	4
Example 1: The empire filters back: Starbucks coffee	4
Reading 1.1 – ‘Styling’ and ‘placing’ Starbucks	5
Example 2: Questioning the globalization of Coca-Cola	6
Reading 1.2 – Restructuring the cola market	7
Reading 1.3 – Contextualizing Coca-Cola	8
Example 3: From pornography to post-modern road-map	9
Reading 1.4 – Re-reading Zola: signpost towards a ‘new retail geography’	10
Constructions of retail geography: placing the book and its organization	11
Reading 1.5 – Defining and questioning ‘retail geography’, 1994	12
Organization of the book and the wider agenda	14
PART 2
SETTING THE SCENE: RETAIL DYNAMICS	19
2 Reconfiguration of corporate structures in retailing	21
Concentration of capital and the rise of the retail corporation	21
Reading 2.1 – Recalling the 1980s – Britain’s ‘retail revolution’	24
Concentration and the retail corporation in the 1990s	25
Example 1: The road to oligopoly – US drug store retailing	25

Example 2 : What became of the great American department stores?	27
Reading 2.2 – Campeau and the bankruptcy of Federated	29
Example 3 : Store wars and after – UK food retailing	31
Reading 2.3 – The vulnerabilities of market dominance	33
Example 4 : LBOs and deleveraging – US food retailing	37
Reading 2.4 – How financial re-engineering held back consolidation	38
Some conceptual themes	41
Corporate lock-in, sunk costs and market exit	41
Reading 2.5 – Grounding retail capital and managing sunk costs	42
Reading 2.6 – Sunk costs and exit: Littlewoods and British Shoe Corporation	45
Capital structure decisions and corporate reconfiguration	46
Corporate strategists and their governance	48
Reading 2.7 – Antonini’s removal from Kmart	49
3 Reconfiguration of retailer–supply chain interfaces	51
The changing character of retailer–supplier relations	51
Shifts in the bargaining power of retailers and suppliers	52
Reshaping the nature of supply relations	54
Reading 3.1 – Relational contracting: the case of bread	55
Reading 3.2 – Dominance, dependency and preferred suppliers: clothing retailing	58
The strategic significance of retailer own-label products	61
Reading 3.3 – Building own-label supply relations	63
‘The ties that bind’ – the embeddedness of supply relations	65
Reading 3.4 – Social relations and the organization of own-label supply chains	66
Commodity chains and retail–supplier relations	67
Reading 3.5 – Conceptualizing the commodity chain	68
4 Organizational and technological transformations in retail distribution	71
The expanding scale of retail formats – supermarkets, superstores and supercentres	71
The emergence of the supermarket	72
Reading 4.1 – Big Bear crashes into New Jersey	73
Reading 4.2 – A&P and the challenge of the supermarket	74
Superstores and supercentres	76
The revolution in distribution and systems	83

Seizing control of the supply chain: the logistical transformation of UK food retailing	84
Reading 4.3 – Three stages of evolution in UK retail logistics	87
Reading 4.4 – Delivering quality: Tesco's logistics system by the early 1990s	88
The UK system in international perspective: contrasts with the USA	89
The emergence and logistical implications of electronic non-store retailing	92
5 Changing retail employment relations	96
The consequences of labour intensity	96
Characteristics of retail employment – feminization and part-time working	99
Reading 5.1 – Regulation and employment in 1990s UK retailing	101
Conceptualizing retail employment	102
A primary/secondary labour market?	103
A multiply segmented and shifting retail labour market	105
Reading 5.2 – Taylorism for retailers?	106
Consumption work and consumption workplaces	107
Reading 5.3 – The shopgirl: class, gender and selling	108
Reading 5.4 – The Gap, Inc.: a case study in customer care	109
Reading 5.5 – The culture of the customer in retailing	111
6 Retail regulation and governance	112
Spatial scales of retail regulation and market consequences	113
Retail regulation at the local scale – contradictions and tensions	113
Reading 6.1 – Contradictions of enforcing the Shops Act at the local level	114
Reading 6.2 – Implementing competition regulation at the local scale in US retailing	116
Reading 6.3 – Contested regulatory domains: the local/national interface	118
Retail regulation at the national scale – market rules and spatial outcomes	119
Private-interest versus public-interest regulation in retailing	121
Reading 6.4 – Private-interest regulation and the shaping of competitive space	123
'Real' regulation, retailing and the nature of the regulatory state	124
Corporate governance – the internal regulation of the retail firm	125

PART 3

MAKING AND RE-MAKING THE GEOGRAPHIES OF RETAIL CAPITAL 129

7 The inconstant geography and spatial switching of retail capital 1: urban issues 131

The creatively destructive nature of the spatial switching of retail capital 132

Reading 7.1 – Stores the road passes through: the drive-in market and the Los Angeles supermarket in the early 1930s 135

Decentralization: learning from Chicago 136

Reading 7.2 – Devalorization of inner city retail: the case of 63rd and Halsted 139

Reading 7.3 – City centre retail transformation: A US–UK comparison 140

Rehabilitation: would the mall play downtown? 141

Reading 7.4 – The Faneuilization of America 142

Reading 7.5 – Pathmark comes to Harlem 145

And could ‘the street’ play in the suburbs? 147

Reading 7.6 – Turning suburbia into SoHo 148

8 The inconstant geography and spatial switching of retail capital 2: regional issues and internationalization 150

A regulatory take on issues of regional expansion and consolidation 150

Reading 8.1 – Pre-emptive store swaps and divestitures in the regional consolidation of the US department store industry 154

Competition and regional monopoly debates 157

The globalization of retail capital 159

Reading 8.2 – Retail TNCs in emerging markets: leveraging scale, know-how and costs of capital 161

Positioning the retail TNCs 162

Reading 8.3 – The uncertainties of Wal-Mart’s entry into Europe 166

Conceptualizing the retail internationalization process 167

9 The configuration, manipulation and contestation of retail space 171

Reading 9.1 – Shoppertainment 171

A new shopping experience in a new environment 173

Reading 9.2 – The grand magasin	174
Reading 9.3 – How to sell	174
Mall magic	176
The Mall of America	179
Reading 9.4 – The apotheosis of the modern mall	179
How public is a mall?	181
Reading 9.5 – Public life in a pleasure dome	181
Experiential retailing	183
Reading 9.6 – Nike Town Chicago (NTC) and the emplaced brandscape	184

PART 4

CONSUMPTION PLACES AND SPACES 187

10 The street 189

Street life and street culture	189
The flâneur and the street as a site of display	190
Reading 10.1 – The flâneur in the city	190
Reading 10.2 – Boulevards for the fashionable and famous	191
Contemporary streets of style	192
Reading 10.3 – The branded street	195
The street and ‘sociality’	196
Reading 10.4 – Urban markets and urban cultures – twentieth-century New York City	198
Reading 10.5 – Car boot sales – markets and carnival	199
The street as a site of resistance	200
The street as mall	201

11 The store 203

Reading 11.1 – Selfridge’s – monument to modernity	203
The great department stores	204
Reading 11.2 – The new domestic downtown	205
Reading 11.3 – Masculinities, space and power	207
Shopping in the modern way – the store in the 1940s and 1950s	208
Reading 11.4 – Mrs Consumer: Woodward’s food floor and femininity	209
Reading 11.5 – Mr Consumer and the tailor of taste	210

xii Contents

Late twentieth-century flagship stores	211
Designing the interior spaces of the store	214
Reading 11.6 – Next and geographies of display	215
12 The mall	217
Constructing suburban utopias – history and development of the shopping mall	218
Reading 12.1 – The invention of the mall	218
North America’s mega-malls	219
Reading 12.2 – The West Edmonton mega-mall	220
Britain’s regional shopping centres	222
Reading 12.3 – The early impact of Meadowhall on Sheffield	223
Reading 12.4 – Regional entrepreneurs and regional shopping centres in the 1980s	225
Reading 12.5 – The mother of UK shopping malls: shopping and identity	227
Peopling the mall	229
Reading 12.6 – Malls, flânerie and post-shoppers	230
The malling of retail space: new landscapes of consumption	231
Reading 12.7 – The post-modern retail environment	231
13 The home	235
Catalogue retailing and the home	235
Reading 13.1 – The birth of mail-order merchandising	236
Television home shopping and the Internet	238
Reading 13.2 – Internet channels to market: rhetoric versus reality	239
Reading 13.3 – Borders.com: expanding the brand and the potential of the Internet	241
Shopping at home and sociality	242
Reading 13.4 – Suburbia, sociality and the Tupperware Party	243
The home as a consumption space	245
Reading 13.5 – Creating space through home consumption	246
Bibliography	248
Author index	271
Subject index	275