

Table of contents

Introduction	1
1 The socialist legacy	2
Traditional central planning	2
Reform socialism	3
2 The task of economic transformation	6
The elements of transformation	7
The current stage of system transformation	8
3 Preliminary lessons of experience	11
The political dimension	11
The phasing of reforms	12
Macroeconomic reforms	12
Internal balance	12
External balance	15
The costs of stabilization	15
The interaction of stabilization and system transformation	17
Price and market reform	17
The market for goods	17
International trade	18
The market for labor	19
Financial markets	19
Private sector development, privatization, and enterprise restructuring	20
New investment	20
Privatization	21
Restructuring	23
The role of the state	24
Institutional reform	24
The legal framework	25
Fiscal reform	26
The social safety net and social services	26
4 Conclusion: The challenge to industrialized countries	29

Annexes 33

1	Reform of the trade and payments system	34
2	Privatization of state enterprises	39
3	Agriculture	42
4	Financial system reform	45
5	Fiscal policy	49
6	Income distribution, poverty, and social safety nets	53
7	The World Bank Group's support for economic transformation in Central and Eastern Europe	56

Tables

1	Economic indicators for CEE countries, for selected years, 1970-91	4
2	Social indicators for selected countries, in the 1980s	5
3	Economic elements of system transformation	9

Figures

1	Growth in per capita output in Central and Eastern Europe, 1990-2000	7
2	Phasing of reform over a 10-year period	13

Boxes

1	Points of debate on phasing	14
2	Economic developments in east Germany after economic union	16
3	Issues in housing reform	18
4	World Bank support for private sector development: The example of Hungary	20
5	Enterprise privatization in east Germany	22
6	China's economic reform	24
7	Cleaning up the environment in CEE countries	25
8	The key role of pensions in economic reform	27
9	How the World Bank's first Structural Adjustment Loan supports system reform in Poland	30

Annex tables

1.1	Structural dependence in the CMEA	35
1.2	Convertible currency trade indicators for CEE countries, 1988-90	37
1.3	Estimates of Soviet subsidies through the CMEA	38
2.1	State-owned sector as share of value-added in selected countries, in the mid-1980s	39
3.1	Per capita average food consumption, 1985	43
6.1	Gini coefficients for selected countries and regions	53
7.1	Status of Bank Group operations in Hungary	58
7.2	Status of Bank Group operations in Poland	60
7.3	Status of Bank Group operations in Yugoslavia	61
7.4	Selected cofinancing operations	64

Annex figure

5.1	Consolidated government expenditures in Eastern Europe as share of GDP, 1982-90	50
-----	---	----

Annex box

2.1	A recent privatization plan for Poland	41
-----	--	----

Endnotes 65

References 72