

Contents

Foreword by Steven M. Cress	xv
Preface	xvii
Acknowledgements	xxi
Introduction	xxv
PART 1: OVERVIEW	1
1. Investing in Closed-End Funds	3
Investment versus Speculation	4
Investment	4
Speculation	5
Fund Basics	5
Open- versus Closed-End Funds	5
Organizational Structure	7
A Brief History	10
Boom and Bust	11
Small Investors Return	13
The Great Bull Market	14
Personality Funds	16

Specialized Equity and Convertible Funds	16
The Bond Funds	17
Shareholder Reinvestment	18
Advantages of All Funds	20
Diversification	20
Professional Management	20
Many Portfolio Choices	21
Economies of Scale	21
Record Keeping	21
Unique CEF Advantages	22
Stability of Capital	23
Investment for Total Return	24
Trading Advantages	24
Disadvantages of CEFs	26
Types of CEFs	28
Conclusion	29
2. Discounts and Premiums	31
Computing Discounts or Premiums	34
A Risk Factor	37
Advantages of the Discount	39
Leverage	39
Higher Yield	39
Beware the Premium!	40
Why the Discount?	42
Fund Specific Factors	45
Sector Specific Factors	46
General Factors	47
Fund Type Affects the Discount	49
Narrowing the Gap	51
Studies of CEF Performance	54
Will Discounts Persist?	55
Conclusion	58
3. Analyzing a Fund	61
The Authors' Philosophy	61
Standard Sources	63
Media Coverage	63
Shareholder Reports	64
Visiting the Library	65

Lipper Data	69
Advisory Letters	70
Brokers Who Specialize	71
Analyzing the Data	73
Expense Analysis	73
Distributions	78
Analyzing Fund Distributions	80
Examining Performance	83
Tracking Discounts	85
Portfolio Turnover	87
Unrealized Appreciation	89
Derivative Products	90
Conclusion	91
Appendix 3-1 Calculation of Total Return for a Multi-Year Holding Period: Closed- versus Open-End Fund	92

PART 2: EQUITY-ORIENTED FUNDS

4. Investing in Stock Funds	97
Stock Fund Differences	98
Diversified Versus Non-Diversified	99
Advantages of Stock Funds	100
Superior Long-Term Performance	100
Time Diversification Lowers Risk	102
The Power of Compounding	103
Gifts to Minors	105
Deeper Discounts	105
Superstar Managers	106
Growth Versus Value	106
Value Investing	107
Approaches to Value	107
Templeton's Principles	108
Growth Investing	109
Small Stocks	110
When to Invest?	111
Small Cap CEFs	112
Conclusion	116
5. Older Domestic Equity Funds	117
Basic Data	118
Performance Records	118

Management Arrangement	121
Fund Profiles	121
Classic Funds	122
Other Older Funds	132
Can CEF Performance Be Measured in a Meaningful Way?	138
Conclusion	140
6. The Personality Funds	141
Fund Features	143
Fund Profiles	144
Selection Guidelines	159
Conclusion	164
7. Dual Purpose Funds	165
The Dual Fund Concept Was Dusted Off	166
Dual Fund Basics	166
The Leverage Factor	167
Maturity Date	168
Growth in Income	170
Potential Pitfalls	171
Gauging Discounts and Premiums	172
Dual Fund Analysis	172
Individual Funds	177
Diversified Common Stock Funds	177
Specialized Dual Funds	179
Conclusion	183
8. Sector Equity Funds	185
Sector Risk	186
Gold-oriented Funds	187
Utility Funds	192
Financial Company Funds	195
Other Sectors	198
Fund Selection	203
Consider Dollar Cost Averaging	203
Conclusion	205

9. Global Investing	207
Cross-Border Investing Is Nothing New	208
Why Invest Internationally?	208
Diversification	208
More Opportunities	213
Better Opportunities	214
Protection Against a Falling Dollar	217
Risks of Investing Abroad	217
Currency Risk	218
Political Risk	219
The Investment Company Route	219
Returns to CEF Investors	220
Types of Funds	221
Conclusion	222
10. Single- and Multi-Country Funds	223
Single Country Funds	223
What Attracts People to Country Funds?	227
Country Fund Profiles	228
Country Fund Valuation	232
Country Funds as Growth Stocks	233
1989 Country Fund Performance	233
1990 Country Fund Fall Out	235
Discounts Prevail in August 1990	236
Premium-Discount Fluctuations	237
Should You Pay A Premium?	237
Funds at Large Discounts	240
The Multi-Country Funds	240
Fund Profiles	241
The Question of Expenses	248
Conclusions	249
11. British and Canadian Funds	251
The London Investment Trusts	252
The Scottish Funds	259
Canadian Funds	261
Getting More Information	262
Conclusion	262

PART 3: FIXED INCOME FUNDS

Introduction to Part 3 on Fixed Income Funds
By A. Michael Lipper

12.	Bond Fund Basics	271
	Closed- Versus Open-End Bond Funds	272
	Bond Basics	274
	Bond Types	274
	Bond Risks	275
	Bond Fund Basics	278
	Analyzing a CEBF	280
	Two Special Ratios	281
	Income Dividends versus Income	281
	Expense Analysis	283
	Set Your Sights on Total Return, Not Yield	284
	Always Relate Turnover to Total Return	285
	Conclusion	285
13.	Older Bond Funds	287
	Past Performance	288
	Older Investment Grade Fund Profiles	289
	Direct Placement Funds	299
	Conclusion	301
14.	Bond Fund Types and Their Characteristics	303
	Bond Fund Categories	304
	High-Yield Corporate Funds	305
	U.S. Government Funds	307
	Mortgage-Backed Securities Funds	308
	Global and International Funds	311
	Multi-Sector Funds	312
	Flexible Portfolio Funds	316
	Municipal Bond Funds	320
	The Nuveen Funds	321
	Choosing a Muni Fund	322
	Loan Participation Funds	324

CEBF Selection Guidelines	325
Conclusion	326

15. Convertible Funds 327

The Basics of Convertibles	327
The Bond Value	328
The Conversion Value	329
A Closer Look at the Premiums	330
Forcing Conversion	330
Three Convertible Strategies	332
The Convertible Funds	334
Convertible Fund Profiles	336
Conclusions	342

PART 4: PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

16. Dealing with Your Broker 347

Trading Basics	348
Liquidity	348
Average Daily Volume	349
The Bid-Asked Spread	350
The "Size" in the Quote	351
Entering Orders-Timing is Important	351
The Market Order	352
The Limit Order	352
Stop Orders	354
Do Not Reduce ("DNR") Orders	354
All-or-None ("AON") Orders	355
Discretionary Orders	355
Watch out for the NAV Syndrome
on Mondays	356
Cash Versus Margin	356
Stock Certificate Considerations	358
A Broker's Advice	359
Conclusion	361

17. Building Your Portfolio 363

Let's Review our Philosophy	364
Developing Your Investment Plan	365
The Risk-Return Trade-Off	367

Risk—A Case Study	368
Diversifying Among Fund Types	370
Time Diversification Makes Equity Investing Less Risky	372
Use Dollar Cost Averaging	372
Core CEF Holdings	373
Additional CEF Holdings	374
Finding Value	374
When to Sell	377
Tax Considerations	377
Conclusions	380
18. Takeovers and Open-Ending	381
Takeover Basics	382
Advantages and Disadvantages of Open-Ending	386
What Attracts Arbitrageurs?	387
Arbitrageurs Face Difficulties	390
Schafer Value Trust: A Case Study	392
Bergstrom Capital Corporation: A Case Study	393
Keeping the Discount Narrow	395
Conclusions	396
19. A Final Word	399
Funds Versus Ordinary Stocks	400
Advantages of Open- and Closed-End Funds	400
Unique Advantages of Closed-End Funds	401
Recipe for Success	403
One Individual's Success Story	404
Conclusions	405
Glossary	407
Appendix 1—Directory of Closed-End Funds	431
Appendix 2—Directory of Closed-End Fund Information Sources and Services	468
Appendix 3—Closed-End Funds Followed by The Value Line Investment Survey	475
Index	477