

Contents

---

Acknowledgments	xi
Abbreviations	xiii
On Notes, Translations, and Names	xix
1. Zingerle's Rattle: History and the Knowledge of Childhood	1
Historiography from Ariès to Zingerle	2
The Knowledge of Childhood	9
The Nature of the Evidence	13
The Shape of the Argument	17
2. Words: Defining the Terms of Childhood	21
General Terms	23
Aristocratic Terms	31
Vocational Terms	34
Service	35
Abstraction	37
The Power of Words	40
3. Nature: The Determinations of Birth	43
The Nature of the Child	45
The Nature of the Noble Lineage	54
The Nature of the Hero/ine	61
The Nature of Change	69
4. Nurture: The Limits of Intervention	72
Care	73
Education	77

Pedagogy	92
Nature and Nurture	98
Congruence and Contradiction	103
5. Relations: Attachment, Separation, and Strange Situations	106
Filiation: Natal Relations	108
Exfiliation: Breaking Ties	117
Affiliation: Making New Ties	132
Growing Away	138
6. Adulthood: Coming of Age or Growing Up	143
Love and Friendship	144
Secular Rites of Passage	148
Saintly Affiliations	163
Disdaining the Secular Rites	167
Childhood and Adulthood, Secular and Religious	170
7. Genres: Different Children's Stories	174
Scenes from Childhood	175
Coming of Age	178
Later Childhood	184
Comprehensive Childhood	187
The End Justifies the Means	196
8. History: Two-and-a-Half Centuries of Childhood	199
1100–1150: The Age of the Prophets	200
1150–1200: Importing Childhood	201
1200–1250: The Golden Age of Secular Childhood	209
1250–1300: Disillusion and the Return of the Saints	219
1300–1350: Perfunctory Childhood	235
History, Sacred and Secular	241
9. Obilot's Games: A Different Knowledge of Childhood	244
The Deficiency of Childhood and the Hegemony of Adulthood	246

Static Nature and Social Change	251
Female and Male	256
Sacred and Secular	259
Childhood, Literature, History	263
Quid Obilot cum Hanno?	267
Bibliography	269
Middle High German Texts	269
Other Texts	279
Index of Middle High German Children	301
General Index	309