Contents

Figures xi
Tables xiii
Preface xv
Abbreviations xviii

Introduction
Columbus and the “Novus Ordo Seclorum” 1
About the Origins of Double Entry 2
The First Published Book on Accounting 3
Accounting and Capitalism 4
On the Evolution of Terminology 5
Capital Market Eras and Accounting Practice 5
Accounting and Property Rights 6

Chapter 1 1492–1775
Accounting from Discovery to Revolutionary Times
From a Continent to a Country 11
The Ideology of a New World Order 12
The Joint Venture and Capital Formation 15
Early Writings and Education Affecting the British Colonies 19
Capital Markets, Speculations, and Early Public Stock Ventures 23
Accounting Practice and Some Early Public Accountants 24
Mercantile Capitalism 25
Government Accounts 28
The Cultural Significance of Accounts before the Revolution 30

Chapter 2 1776–1826
The Formation of a National Economy
Political and Economic Context of a New Nation 32
The Commercial Structure of the United States 34
Capital Markets 40
Federalist Policies 43
Accountants in the New Nation 44
Our Forefathers' Accounts 45
The Counting House 47
Education of Accountants 48
Early Textbooks 50
Accounting Practice and Disclosure 54
Cost/Management Accounting 56
Government and Accounting 59
The Significance of Accounts in a New Nation 60

Chapter 3 1827–1865

The Beginnings of Corporate America 63
The Economics and Demographics of Antebellum America 63
The Capital Markets and Financial Disclosures 69
Accounting Education and Practice 73
Practice Issues 76
Steamboats and Stagecoaches 80
Audits and Early Annual Reports 81
Antebellum Management Accounting: Silent, Dynamic Years 91
Taxation, Governmental Accounting, and Nonprofit Accounting 95
Antebellum Accounting Theory 97
Accounting's Social Impact 101

Chapter 4 1866–1896

Accounting in the Gilded Age 103
The Political and Social Environment in the Gilded Age 103
Social Philosophy 105
The Constitution, Corporations, and Labor 107
Politics, Panics, and Populism 108
The Capital Markets, Railroads, Industry, and Wealth 110
Accounting, Reporting, and Analysis 115
Disclosure 130
Origins of an Accounting Profession 131
Higher Education for Accountants 150
Textbooks and Teaching 154
Origins of "Preclassical" Theory 154
Toward Managerial Accounting and Economies of Scope 160
The Cultural Significance of Accountancy in the Gilded Age 173
Chapter 5 1897–1918
The Formation of an Accounting Profession
The Progressive Movement 175
The Efficiency Movement 177
The Rise of Financial Capitalism 182
The Role of the Accountant in the Corporate Reform Movement 186
The Evolution of Professional Standards 197
Accounting and Auditing Theory 207
Developing Technical Standards 228
The Significance of the Formative Period 234

Chapter 6 1919–1945
Accountancy Comes of Age: The Interwar Period
World War I: The Beginnings of Cooperative Capitalism 237
A Profession Divided 242
Educational Standards 256
Accounting Theory 259
The Decade of the Thirties 270
Income Determination 278
Defining the Independent Audit Function 290
The Significance of the Interwar Period 295

Chapter 7 1946–1972
Expansion and Controversy:
Accountants in an Age of Uncertainty
The Employment Act of 1946 298
Challenges to the Property Rights Paradigm 301
Inflation Accounting: The Political Debate 305
The Development of a New Standard-Setting Process 310
Corporate Social Responsibility 318
Managerial Accounting: Revolution or Suppression? 323
Taxation: The New Growth Area 327
External Auditing 332
Criticisms and Responses 332
The Challenge to Accounting Education 340
The Significance of Accounting in an Uncertain Age 346
Figures

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Pref.1</td>
<td>A View of the Origins of Accounting over Time</td>
<td>xvi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Intro.1</td>
<td>Portrait of Luca Pacioli by Piero della Francesca</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Intro.2</td>
<td>Chart comparing accounting knowledge and technology</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Intro.3</td>
<td>Portrait of Elijah Borden, Connecticut accountant and merchant, by Ralph Earl, 1789</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.1</td>
<td>Title Page of John Mair's Book-keeping Moderniz'd (1768)</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.2</td>
<td>A title page from an early U.S. accounting text, 1796</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.1</td>
<td>Continental dollar, minted 1776</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.2</td>
<td>A page from the DuPont Company Waste Book, 1811</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.3</td>
<td>The American system of practical bookkeeping by James Bennett, 1820</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.1</td>
<td>Harper's Weekly Profile: Members of the International Business College Association, 1866</td>
<td>74</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.2</td>
<td>Initial text page from a nineteenth-century bookkeeping text by Thomas Jones of New York</td>
<td>79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.3</td>
<td>Wells Fargo's 1864 Income Statement</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.4</td>
<td>An auditor's report, 1855</td>
<td>86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.5</td>
<td>An example of an audit comment letter, 1857</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.6</td>
<td>An example of a corporation worksheet, 1852</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.1</td>
<td>Capital accounts and assets and liabilities of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Co., 1879</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.2</td>
<td>First annual report of the U.S. Rubber Company (UNIROYAL), 1893</td>
<td>127</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.3</td>
<td>A copy of British legislation relating to accountants</td>
<td>140</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.4</td>
<td>Early CPA legislation. (A) Letter; (B) Draft</td>
<td>142–43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.5</td>
<td>A classroom scene typical of the post–Civil-War era</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.6</td>
<td>Textbook example of financial reports, 1876</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.7</td>
<td>Folsom's &quot;value theory chart&quot;</td>
<td>159</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.8</td>
<td>Water stock for the City of Baltimore, 1894</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
5.1 Cartoon drawing of Arthur Lowes Dickinson and Elijah Watt Sells 193
5.2 Condensed general balance sheet of U.S. Steel Corporation, 1902. (A) Assets; (B) Liabilities and undivided surplus 224–25
5.3 General Motors annual report, 1909 226
5.4 Schedule for standard and uniform reports for municipal industries and public service corporations 231
5.5 Uniform Accounting form for profit and loss account 232

6.1 The continuity of American accounting thought, 1840–1940 282
6.2 Depression-era audit report, Ernst & Ernst 292
6.3 AIA Speakers at a wartime accounting conference, 1944 296

8.1 AICPA’s award-winning float at the 1987 Rose Bowl 351
8.2 Demographics of AICPA members, 1994 353
8.3 AICPA membership and membership growth rates, 1973–1994 372
8.4 Plunge in purchasing power of the dollar, 1940–1990 385
8.5 A core reporting model, as envisioned at a 1990 AICPA Wharton School conference 392
8.6 Distribution of corporate equity ownership, individuals vs. institutions 395
8.7 New York Stock Exchange shareowners as percentage of U.S. population, 1952–1990 396
Tables

2.1 Schedule A, U.S. Government Receipts and Disbursements, 1789–1793  36

3.1 Growth of Cities in the United States, 1830–1840  68
3.2 Utica and Schenectady Railroad, Report of the Treasurer, 1841  83
3.3 Utica and Schenectady Railroad, Report of the Treasurer, 1842  83
3.4 South Carolina Railroad, General Statement of Receipts and Expenditures, 1846  84
3.5 South Carolina Railroad, Property Statement, 1846  84
3.6 Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., Receipts and Expenses, 1833  90
3.7 Massachusetts Railroad Report, 1852  92

4.2 Listings on the New York Stock Exchange, Bonds and Stocks, 1885–1890  124
4.3 The Structure of Pre-1900 American Business Trusts  129
4.4 The First CPAs  147
4.5 Legal Recognition of Accountants  148
4.6 Model Report for a City of 100,000 Persons, 1891  171

8.1 Number of U.S. Workers per Profession  352
8.2 The Global “Haves” Corporations with Access to World Capital  363
8.3 Revenues and Sources of the Big Six Accounting Firms in the United States, 1994  400
8.4 Financial Summary, U.S. Government, 1993  411